Princeton-Rutgers Football Rivalry, Oldest in Nation, Ending by Mutual Agreement

In 1984, novelist George Orwell wrote, the world will be a different place. In 1983, the world of intercollegiate football will be different, too: Princeton and Rutgers have decided that the nation's oldest gridiron rivalry, established in 1869, will come to an end in that year.

The initiative in doing so has been taken by Rutgers, which has already begun to upgrade its schedules with an eye to ranking among the nation's top teams and earning invitations to post-season Bowl games. Within the past month, the Scarlet has managed to revise its 1977 bookings–no mean feat in the face of scheduling policy which forces virtually every major college save Ivy League members to line up opponents a full decade ahead of time.

As early as Friday, September 2, Rutgers has now announced, it will open its season with Penn State, almost invariably the top team in the East and the only one with ability to earn a Bowl berth regularly in the past decade. The site? Not the Knights' own stadium, which barely holds 30,000, but the gigantic Meadowlands complex in East Rutherford, where some 77,000 can be accommodated. Television is a certainty–that's why Friday night before Labor Day weekend was chosen.

Because the last game in the current series with Penn State is set for 1983, Rutgers has asked Princeton if it will agree to what is currently a one-year moratorium for that year, and the Tigers are already looking for another opponent. With the athletic policies of the two old rivals becoming more diverse with each passing month, it is quite unlikely that the series will be resumed the following fall.

"We are going to look hard at the advisability of replacing Rutgers after 1983," Associate Director of Athletics Sam Howell said this week, adding that Fred Gruninger, Rutgers' Director of Athletics, had told him, "We will understand if you find an opponent you want to play in 1983 and thereafter." Princeton's schedules do not go as far as 1988, but Rutgers' do, and the Scarlet does not plan to book the Tigers then, either.

Howell is not ready to name names, but says "We are not looking for a 'breather'" When Ivy League presidents agreed earlier this year that their teams may, in most years, schedule a 10th opponent – a search that is now under way on the eight college campuses -- Howell pointed out that most commitments are made at least on a two-year basis. A home-and-home agreement is a strong probability, because that is, in effect, what Princeton and Rutgers have.

Now that Rutgers has made the Citizens' Committee Nearing Agreement On Re-Combinant DNA Research Report

"I hope we can come up with a report as inclusive as possible, answering our 'charge,' making room for a wide divergence of opinion on whether re-combinant DNA research should be conducted and exploring what the larger issues are -- even if this research is safe for Borough and Township residents."

The Rev. Wallace Alston of Princeton's DNA citizens committee, often regarded as a minority in his views, made that comment this week after a three-hour DNA meeting Monday night, which brought the group closer than it has been before to a report most members could accept.

The Committee had a May 1 deadline for reporting to Borough and Township governing bodies on the question of re-combinant DNA research in Princeton.

This Saturday, (1 p.m., Township Hall), the group will meet again. Members will work on a wrap-up to be prepared this week by chairman Suzanne Fremon. It may be accepted by the group on Saturday, and if not then, as soon as possible thereafter.

Ordinance to Follow. After the report has gone to Borough Council and Township Committee, those bodies will hold one or more public meetings. They will then decide what kind of ordinance to adopt.

Last Wednesday, Township Committee's David Blair, liaison to the DNA group, asked his colleagues to instruct him to tell the DNA committee to push toward completion of the report. Committee member Hugo Hoogenboom said he hoped the committee wouldn't hold up the report while it tried to work out a consensus. A minority statement, he said, could be helpful to governing bodies in making up their own minds. Mayor Josie Hall said she hoped the public information hearings could be over by summer.

Broadly speaking, the report will allow re-combinant DNA research within Princeton's boundaries, imposing severe restrictions.

"Did we make a value judgment on whether this work OUGHT to be done?" asked the Rev. Mr. Alston Monday night, "I don't think we have made that judgment." We have said "Those planning to do so." If the report can come out that way, it might include more of us."

"We haven't said research should be encouraged or even allowed," he said later, "that's a governmental decision. I want the DNA committee to make this more specific, so the Princeton community won't assume that we approve."

"We haven't decided whether we 'approve' or not," said DNA member Joseph Wisnovsky at Monday night's meeting. "I wouldn't want a newspaper headline to that effect."

The group took several 9-0 votes Monday night (Harold Logan and Emma Epps were absent). One recommends that re-combinant research can be done only under guidelines laid down by the National Institutes of Health, Princeton University and municipal officials. Registration and an institutional biohazards committee would be required, with two public members on the committee. The institution would have to train its personnel and monitor the lab. work.

P-4 Experiments Banned. In other unanimous votes, the group agreed to ban experiments "believed" (changed from "known") to present serious hazards and decided not to fine violators, but recommended that any ordinance provide for closing the laboratories in violation.

On the question of banning in Princeton any experiments now classified as "P-4" (requiring the strictest possible security -- Princeton University wants to do only P-1, P-2 and P-3), member Carl Fields cast the only "no" vote.

In principle, he said, he cannot be opposed to P-4 research, and besides, to ban it "in Princeton" would be viewed with concern in Montgomery, West Windsor, Lawrence and other neighboring towns.

In another 8-1 vote, the group supported formation of a citizens biohazards committee with a broad list of responsibilities, ranging from education of the Princeton community, to following scientific developments in DNA research, evaluating the mechanism for co-operation with various institutions, making sure adequate training programs are instituted, providing advice if Borough or Township governments asked for it, and soon.

David Fulmer voted "no." "It wouldn't be a very effective group," he said, "and could even be harmful if it became 'meddlesome.'"

Susanna Waterman, chief author of the minority report, said after Monday's meeting that she is particularly worried about the committee's decision to give up "independent" monitoring. The institution itself -- Princeton University, or commercial laboratory -- would appoint its own biohazards committee to do this job and she believes this is unwise.

The crux of her minority view, she said, is her belief that hard regulations haven't been sufficiently developed.

Proof Required. "We should say to any institutioo, 'Show me your monitoring system. Who's going to be in that lab? Prove you're making full disclosures of your work. Show me your manual.' The minority report says that we do not advocate any proliferation of research until safety factors have been further assessed."

"Critical to my position," she added, "is the absolute certainty that the report is not seen as advocacy."

In a position paper prepared by Dr. Fulmer and signed by Dr. Logan, Dr. Fulmer -- who is a physician -- declares his belief that the DNA committee should support DNA research "fully and enthusiastically."

The risk that dangerous micro-organisms could escape from a P-3 lab and survive in the outside environment is "vanishingly small," he says.

Such research, he adds, could make a "very positive contribution to our understanding and uses of new forms of DNA."

Other Benefits Cited. Freeman J. Dyson, a physicist, also has a position paper, pointing to the benefits of re-combinant research. In it, he says that Federal NIH guidelines, imposed on any institution doing research with Federal funds, are sufficient as safeguards. Dr. Fulmer has said he believes they are even "excessively restrictive."

Although the DNA committee was told only to report on what should be done in Princeton, its members look beyond boundaries to the ethical considerations in genetic research.

"Ethics, the applications of genetic research to man and the environment, are enormously importaot!" exclaimed Dr. Fields at Monday's meeting. He is a biochemist.

"My concern has been the welfare of the community, as well as its health and safety," the Rev. Mr. Alston says. "Our committee hasn't had time to discuss this, but I hope a community biohazards committee would see as its prime responsibility, fostering a discussion of these issues in the Princeton community."

The Time Mounts Up. When he refers to the group's lack of time for this subject, he is thinking of the two days each week, two to three hours each day, three months of work the unpaid citizens have spent.

"The majority report is a fine piece of work," Mrs. Waterman says. "Careful deliberation and thought have gone into it, every word is weighed."

The votes referred to, incidentally, are ways of arriving at a "sense of the meeting," in Mrs. Fremon's view. She refers to her "sloppy parliamentary procedures," and has told the group she doesn't believe rules of parliamentary law are appropriate when people's views are fluid and changing.

"The public needs to be reassured that research is being done under proper surveillance," she says, "that's the important thing."

CHIANTI

The word Chianti is to most people, synonymous with Italian wine. The familiar straw-covered Fiascho (the plural of which is Fiaschi) caught the public imagination all over the world as being the symbol of Italian wine. Ruffino, who is one of the largest shippers of this wine to the U.S.A., has decided to do away with the traditional fiascho and use regular bottles instead. This is a matter of economics The cost of the fiaschi was becoming extremely costly and the great amount of breakage of this type of packaging was also a determining factor.

Ordinary Chianti is usually inexpensive and goes wonderfully well with Italian food

Chianti produced by firms such as Antinori, Brolio, Frescobaldi, Mellini, Nipozzano, Ricasoli, and Ruffino are outstanding and a pleasure to the palate. But, you have a eat in store when you try a bottle of Chianti Classico Riserva from any of the outstanding shippers. Be sure to look for the government label showing a black cockerel in a red target which appears on the neck of a bottle entitled to be labelled Chianti Classico. You will be amazed at the difference in taste of this outstanding wine

Princeton-Rutgers Football

first move toward bringing the 108-year old rivalry to a close with the game in 1982, there is some possibility that a mutual agreement to end it eveo earlier may be reached. Howell has this to say:

"The game this year will be played in Palmer Stadium, but we expect that Rutgers, which has the choice of site in '78, will want to go to the Meadowlands. One of our own alumni, Governor Byrne, had been instrumental in having the 1976 game booked there, but the Giants' stadium wasn't ready last September.

"If Rutgers thinks it can draw more people to Meadowlands than Palmer Stadium, we expect to play there in 1978, but we think we'll get a lot of feedback from our alumni and other fans. Tailgating on a blacktop lot for a high parking fee isn't quite the same thing as going to Palmer Stadium, and other aspects of the professional football atmosphere Meadowlands provides may have a similar lack of appeal.

"In 1979, Rutgers is a home game for us, and we'll play in the Stadium. It could be that if Rutgers wants to go back to the Giants Stadium in 1980, we'll give the matter considerable thought, and if we can both find acceptable opponents for that season, the series could come to an end earlier than 1983."

Rivalry Now Unbalanced. Long before Rutgers had moved toward a non-existent Meadowlands for its bigger games and had thought in terms of scheduling Penn State, Alabama and other major powers, the series had trended toward becoming a mis-match. In the last nine years, the Tigers have won only three times, and in their present depressed state, there is no telling when they may return to an even footing in the rivalry.

Once eager to schedule a number of Ivy League foes (among them in the recent past, Cornell, Penn, Harvard, Yale and Columbia), Rutgers earlier this year gave indication of its new philosophy by asking Columbia if it would agree to moving off the Knights' schedule this fall. When the Lions found that Colgate was available, they agreed; Rutgers promptly finalized arrangements with Penn State for a four-game series. The first will be played in September, the next two in '78 and '79 and the last in 1983, with Princeton being asked to sever the long relationship on September 21 of that year. Launched, as most football fans know, on November 6, 1869, the rivalry has bridged various gaps that have occurred in the past, and has been continuous for the past quarter-century.

Princeton has already made one move to vary the nine opponents it has faced every year since the mid-50s by bringing its relationship with Colgate to an end in 1979. Thereafter, Army, Navy, and Air Force, Virginia and Delaware will appear on the schedule as the Tigers' fourth opponent, each team for a two-year stretch.

There will be further variation when the 1977 Presidents' agreement permits a 10th game to be inserted, in Princeton's case as the eighth contest on the schedule, between Pennsylvania and Yale. While no formal announcement has been forthcoming, it is understood that the Tigers will resume an old rivalry with Lafayette for two of these dates and later begin one with the University of Maine.

by Borough Council members. Council voted unanimously to make zoning changes allowing construction by the University of some 12 publicly-available apartments in the central Business District.

The new ordinance converts the south side of Nassau from Washington Road to the old Nassau Street school building from E-1 to Neighborhood-Business, allowing conditional use for a bus station in case the University moves the present 92 Nassau office to make a foyer for new apartments in the building.

The zone boundary will be moved 75 feet back from those Nassau Street property lines, making room for the four old William Street houses. The E-2 zone will be moved up to meet that line.

"I applaud the University," declared Council member Martin P. Lombardo. "It's an excellent improvement for a neighborhood that needs a shot in the arm for business. I've been concerned that the University has taken property off the tax rolls and used houses for education. Now, it's putting rateables back, and increasing housing, too."

Colleagues Gus Escher and Richard Woodbridge also spoke praise. "This is an innovative, appropriate way to save the William Street houses," Mr. Woodbridge said.

Council introduced an ordinance allowing different parts of the land-use law to be appealed before Council, providing the kind of "one-stop shopping" the land-use law itself provides for applicants who want zoning or sub-division decisions.

The measure was prompted by the Princeton Housing Coalition's two-part appeal to Council of Planning Board approval of the University's plans for its bio-chemical building. Without the proposed measure, the Coalition would have to appeal the decision before two different tribunals. Council set June 1 for the Coalition hearing.

Baseball Field Sought. Don Barr, Recreation Director, served as advocate for the Princeton Lions, who want to build a Little League baseball field in the Grover Avenue playground. The Lions have $9,000 toward the $30,000 project. The Borough's share of the remaining $21,000 would be about $7,000 and the Township share, $14,000.

The Lions would contribute labor; lights would be provided at reduced cost by a member Lion and private donors would pay for the dugouts, Mr. Barr said.

When Council asked whether the $18,000 lights were needed, Lion Doug Hoffman declared that the Lions don't want a field without lights. Electricity is about $1,000 a year.

Little League players now use a Community Park field which is in bad shape and used heavily during the season, Mr. Barr said.

Council member Nelson van den Blink said she was troubled about spending money for something used only four nights a week for two months and colleague Gus Escher said Borough and Township had to reach some agreement on capital expenditures for recreation.

Joseph Moore Is Chosen

Joseph P. Moore will be named to the school board at the regular business meeting May 24, and will begin to serve May 25. The resignation of Judith Getis will be received at the May 24 meeting.

By an 8-0 vote – Mrs. Getis was absent – at a special meeting Tuesday night, the board declared its intention of taking this action. Members spent some 45 minutes interviewing Mr. Moore.

It was announced that two other nominees had been proposed for the Getis seat, but had declined. They were not named. Mr. Moore was the only candidate.

THE LAND CHANGES

In the Township. The changing map of Princeton Township -- its new bike paths, roads and open spaces – occupied Committee at last Wednesday's meeting and will again this Wednesday, when Committee receives a request from Gibbs and Hill for the land-use changes required before it can build its 623-home development.

"Let's keep our country roads countrified," urged Committee member Hugo Hoogenboom, as Mayor Josie Hall wondered aloud whether it might not be a good idea to create bumps in the new Mountain Avenue Extension to slow people down. The bond ordinance for the extension and its Route 206 jug-handle was unanimously passed. Cost of the project: $122,000. When it has been completed, Bayard Lane, will be closed at its Mountain intersection.

Plans call for a four-way stop traffic signal at the Route 206-Mountain jug-handle. This means cyclists on the new bike path from Leigh Avenue to Community Park will be able to cross Route 206 safely. The ordinance for that path -- $20,300 -- was also approved as part of the amended Green Acres application.

Safety of cyclists was to be the main factor in construction of a Great Road bike path, Abbot Low Moffat reminded Committee. He then read more than a half a dozen hazardous elements he and the new bicycle committee have observed as construction proceeds.

Among them, are a "slalom course" of telephone poles, the Westerly-Mountain section of the path which has been shifted to a line too close to the road, the need for curbing along the last 15-20 feet of this section as it approaches Mountain, straight curbing as the path swings off the Mountain-Winfield bridge onto the road, the need for a two-inch white park at the path's outer edge and curbing top.

Mr. Moffat pointed out that the anonymous donors of the path will pay any increased charges these changes may entail.

Cost Reduction Announced. "Let's call it 'Princeton Turning Basin Park', " suggested H. Philip Minis, Environmental Commission chairman, as he cheerfully announced that $15,000 can be cut from estimates to develop the park.

The land, between the canal and Stony Brook on Lower Alexander, has a clogged-up turning basin formerly used by barges. It can be dredged for amounts estimated at $8,000 to $16,000, Mr. Minis told Committee, depending on what has to be dredged up. He proposed spending $400 to drain the pond and see what's there.

A fine manual labor summer job program for youth, promptly suggested Committee member David Blair, and everyone agreed.

Mr. Minis' cuts save some $12,000 by trimming the canoe-launch steps leading to the brook from 25 to eight feet in width; removing the dock and at a saving of $2,400, buying cheaper picnic tables.

"It's folly to spend any money at all when the only safe access is by car," Mr. Moffat declared, "the park is hazardous to walk to, and you can't bike there at all."

With Bhagwan Dass, assistant Township engineer, he unrolled plans for a path cantilevered from the bridge -- $24,000.

"You must have access, in any Green Acres application," Mr. Moffat told Committee.

Green Light for Library. Margaret Broadwater said it sounded nice, but she herself had great concern for the public library, if the Township is thinking about spending money. The library wants $43,000 to complete plans for an addition. Mayor Hall said the $43,000 was in the capital budget.

The mayor said she was sorry nobody from Committee had been at last week's library trustees meeting, and announced that she would apologize to librarian Robert Staples. (See Mailbox, Page 17.)

Acceptance of some 40 acres of open space land from Mrs. Mary Pardee will be up for public hearing this Wednesday. The Planning Board

If You Missed It, It Was Still There: The Latest Recorded Snowfall in May

"The real, last blast out of Canada," commented Science Associates' David Ludlum, slipping a mitten over a dogwood blossom.

"Cold air over Quebec and Ontario and a storm center stalled off the Jersey coast drew those north winds. Probably won't get this cold again this spring."

Often, over May 9-10-11, there is a cold outbreak from Canada, the weatherman observed, adding, "This time, it came with snow," thereby reassuring people who were scorned because they they had been telling non-believers that it really and truly had snowed on Monday.

It was not only the first May snowfall since 1906 but the latest date in the month that snow has fallen since records were first kept in 1865. Unlike areas north of here, which received as much as a foot, none of the white stuff stayed on the ground.

"Ice pellets, too," Mr. Ludlum continued, "but not hail. Ice pellets are a winter phenomenon; hail comes in summer."

Last Friday, Mr. Ludlum peeled off humid winter clothes to get ready for Saturday's Great Kite Flying Day, knowing there was a cold front just waiting, north of us.

Winds on the ground were light, which made it hard to launch kites, he said, as if kite-flyers hadn't discovered that already, but there were higher winds that kept 'em up, once they got up.

The first burst of cold air came Friday night, the second on Sunday. By this Thursday, there will be "improvement."

We never did get frost, surprisingly. Only around 39 degrees Fahrenheit.

has warned that a condition of Mrs. Pardee's – that no roads be built -- conflicts with the Master Plan map showing an extension of Bayard Lane from Mountain Avenue right through the acreage.

"She won't negotiate that condition," observed Committee member Elizabeth Hutter, "she will withdraw the offer. If we accept, with her condition, and then decide to put a road through, the property would go to the Watersheds Association."

In other business this Wednesday, Committee will introduce an ordinance revising Federal flood insurance program regulations and accept a report on the Mountain Lakes Brook flood study.

Traffic hazards on Route 206, near the Somerset Farms store, will be discussed in the work session, as will the proposed landmark ordinance.

STAFF CUTS PROTESTED

At Regional Schools. Various departments in the schools have begun marshalling their forces, following decisions by the school board to dismiss 37 teachers and reduce others to a part-time schedule.

Art teachers, in a letter to Acting Superintendent Edith Francis, cite the 36 percent reduction in art teachers and point out that in the Middle School, there will be only one art teacher for 800 students.

"A Middle School student has art for nine weeks, once in three years," the letter says, "the high school program has been reduced to a skeleton that will not even pass the Middle Atlantic States Evaluation scheduled for 1977-78."

East Brunswick, the art teachers say, has five art teachers, and in Princeton, "every local private school offers several times as many art offerings as Princeton High School."

The letter is signed by Rosemary Blair, Ted Lynch, David Mackey, Louis Cicchini and Arthur Moore.

At the Middle School, the Student Services' child study team – Lois Young, learning consultant; Constance Vieland, psychologist and Marcia Sheinberg, social worker, all of whom have been cut back – is presenting to the administration several options which could, the team feels, shore up the student services situation at the Middle School.

"Cutting back is rough for parents who are anxious about their children," says Ms. Young, adding that she is "optimistic" about a solution.

"An Extra Push." The two full-time resource people for Middle School Student Services were low on the seniority list and were dismissed. In the Middle School, a great deal of emphasis is placed on reading for sixth-graders who are in their first year at the school.

"We give that extra push, to solidify their reading skills by the end of the sixth grade," Ms. Young says, "this doesn't mean they're slow learners – what they've learned just needs to jell."

"You need to provide many options for kids," she continues, "not just a 'reading center' but work-study, one-one tutoring, community exploration, small groups for kids who are less verbal."

As learning consultant, she works with teachers and supplemental instructors, commenting that it isn't always possible for a teacher to reach all the kids in a classroom.

In elementary schools, there have been cut-backs also. Time for the school psychologist and social worker at Johnson Park has been reduced and two of the three people on the team will probably be transferred, so that a whole new team will have to start up in September.

Numbers, however, don't give a complete picture, according to Charles Huchet, director of Student Services, since staff must be shifted around to make sure high-seniority people are fitted in. This can mean disruption of a program as new people move in, he says.

Most elementary schools will have a reduced social work staff. Supplemental instruction -- remedial reading – has been pared at Riverside, and speech therapy at Johnson Park. However, speech therapy at Littlebrook has been increased by one-half a day.

The High School Story. At the high school, "where remedial work is desperately needed," Dr. Huchet observes, there have been cutbacks in supplemental teachers.

A full-time special ed teacher has been cut to one-half time, endangering operation of a Special Education resource center at Riverside. There will be only one full-time nurse at the high school, and one full-time nurse at the Middle School.

Dr. Huchet plans to propose two full-time special ed people, plus an aide, for the high school – a proposal cited in the board's 'cap' appeal. The high school hasn't had any classes in special ed. Now, Dr. Huchet says, needs for special ed are apparent at the Middle School, also.

"We have no legal right to tell parents we can't provide this help because we have no money," Dr. Huchet believes, "It's part of a thorough-and-efficient education. I'm beginning to see a collision between regular and special ed needs for the same dollar."

JUVENILES ARRESTED

On Separate Charges. Borough police apprehended several juveniles last week for separate offenses.

Two 13-year old Township youths were caught by Patrolmen William Hunter and Victor Fasanella Sunday afternoon in a hallway in Princeton High School. Police were assisted in their search by William Karch, superintendent of buildings for the school system.

According to police, the youths entered the school by first climbing a downspout to the roof, making their way across the roof to the school tower where they climbed through an open window.

Two Trenton youths, 17 and 14, were apprehended last week as they tried to hide a CB radio in a second floor lavatory of a Nassau Street office building.

The two had been observed by Lt. John Bellow leaving the Palmer Square parking lot adjacent to the Princeton Playhouse with a CB radio in their possession. He followed them and was assisted by other police officers in his search when the two suspects entered the office building.

The two had smashed the right rear window of a car to steal the CB unit, police said.

A 16-year old Princeton youth was arrested last week for making obscene phone calls to a Princeton girl. His arrest followed an investigation by Det. Timothy Huizing.

Monday evening, responding to a 10:23 prowler call from a Harriet Drive resident, Det. Huizing and Sgt. Ralph Procaccino arrested a 16-year old Princeton youth. He was taken to headquarters for processing.

By now, it's getting warm enough so that you'd almost think spring was just around the corner. Or was it really here, and just got pushed into the deep freeze?

In any event, those Monday temperatures just a few degrees above freezing will be replaced by something a whole lot more normal. The thermometer through the weekend will range from the mid-40s to the high 60s and then even the low 70s. Of course we had all that before, but it's nice to know it will be back again.

Job Eliminated

Ralph Heyman confirmed this week the rumor that the school board is planning to eliminate his job. Mr. Heyman is Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent and has held the position, under various titles under changing tables of organization, for seven years.

To replace that job, the board is reportedly planning to create either the position of Associate Superintendent or Assistant Superintendent. Either of these alternatives will cost more in salary than the present Administrative Assistant position.

Before assuming his present job, Mr. Heyman was on the faculty of the high school.

LATIN THEME SATURDAY

At PDS Fair. The annual Princeton Day School Fair will take place rain or shine Saturday from 10 to 3 at the Princeton Day School skating rink on the Great Road. The Fair will have a Latin American theme, keynoting friendship with neighbors "South of the Border." All proceeds will benefit the PDS endowment fund.

The Fair is an all-school event with students, teachers and parents putting forth considerable effort. The rink will be transformed into a mid-way where games and concessions may be enjoyed, including a few new ones such as a Live Mouse Game and a Petting Zoo. The Spook House has been redesigned to resemble a Bandito's Hideaway.

The 9th grade and Prof. Barton will hold a car wash and lunch, tacos included will be prepared by Judy Burks and Ruth Varney. Herbs, vegetables, hanging baskets, annuals and perennials will be available at the plant booth, and the bake sale table will feature baklava as well as banana and zucchini bread and southern pecan pie. New this year will be a booth featuring tennis togs for children. Entertainment throughout the day will include highland dancers, violinists, and sextet and octet singing groups. Everyone is welcome.

5 COMPLAINTS SERVED

Following Traffic Mishap. Criminal and traffic charges piled up for Jeffrey J. Tkacs, 19, 252 North Harrison Street early Sunday evening, after he failed to maintain control of his car while turning off Nassau Street onto Harrison.

He has been charged with assault and battery of two police officers, drunken driving, careless driving, no license in possession and failure to make repairs to his car. He is scheduled to appear in court June 15 on the two assault charges (bail $1000) and on June 6 for the drunk driving charge (bail $250).

According to the traffic investigation by Ptl. William Hunter, Mr. Tkacs failed to straighten out after turning. His car struck the curb, then travelled back across the roadway and hit a street sign.

It then continued north on Harrison, on two flat tires, and pulled into the municipal lot next to the Hook & Ladder Firehouse about 100 yards away from the accident scene.

When Ptl. Hunter and Ptl. Peter Hanley responded to several calls at 7:30, they found Mr. Tkacs attempting to repair the flat tires. He denied being involved in any accident. The officers reported detecting an odor of alcohol on his breath.

He is alleged to have struck Ptl. Hunter in the chest with his fist and to have pushed and spat upon Ptl. Hanley. Also present in the car, police said, was a 15-year old Princeton juvenile who has been charged with being under the influence of alcohol.

BRIEF WIND TOLL

Wires, Trees Down. "We had a brief wind storm Sunday night," commented Chief Michael Carnevale.

Police, he said, received several calls around 11:15 reporting a wire down across Harrison Street between Pelham and Sergeant. Public Service was notified but was bogged down with other calls that took precedent, Chief Carnevale said.

Members of the Borough engineering department erected barriers until power was restored at 2:51 a.m.

Between 11:16 and 11:28 there were calls reporting a tree limb down on Lytle Street and of wires sparking on Township police received a call at 11:25, reportiog a tree down on Witherspoon Street near the Medical Arts Building. Public Service was notified at 11:26 when power went out in the Western end of the Township.

WILL NOT RECONSIDER

In 19 Vandeventer Case. It was a 4-4 tie last Tuesday, not quite enough to tip the balance toward "yes," so the Planning Board will not reconsider its refusal to grant sub-division and variances to Claudette Rubin for her property at 19 Vandeventer.

The actual refusal last month had been on a technicality: there were more "yes" votes than "no" votes, but a proper quoroum had not been voting, and so the requests were denied.

Members voting to reconsider the refusal were Elizabeth Hutter, Harry Sayen, Karl Light and Margaret Broadwater. "No" votes were cast by Robert W. Cawley, Golda Gottlieb, Jerome Rose and Hans K. Sander.

The board also voted conditional use authorization, related variances, approval of minor site development and parking requirements and waiver of part of the parking requirement so that Trinity Church can legally use 22 Stockton Street for office space. The church had unwittingly been using the space without authorization.

MEETING THURSDAY

Of Sewer Authority. Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority members will hold a special meeting this Thursday at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall.

They will continue to discuss the recommendation by the state's Department of Environmental Protection that the Authority construct a three-plant sewer system instead of the single-plant system which the majority of Authority members prefer.

Also on the agenda is a request by South Brunswick for extension of its sewer system.

RECYCLING SCHEDULE

HOST FAMILIES SOUGHT

For AFS Visitors. Princeton families will have an opportunity to be hosts to visiting AFS students over the Fourth of July weekend when a busload of 40 youngsters arrives in town for a visit from July 2 to 6. Activities have been planned for the high schoolers, but sleeping accomodations are needed. Those interested in having a foreign student as a guest should call Mrs. Jane Lion, 924-0503, or Mrs. Ellen Tabell, 921-6965.

Host families for a recent visit by five high school students from Newport News, Va., were Mr. and Mrs. Gino Treves, Mr. and Mrs. Anthonie Snijders, Mrs. Huguette Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Wilmerding and Dr. and Mrs. Karl Zaininger.

Those interested in having a foreign high school student as a guest for six months to a year beginning in August should call Mrs. Leiske Wright, 921-7870. Students are waiting to come to Princeton as soon as host families are available.

SPRAYING SCHEDULED

For Gypsy Moth. The aerial spraying of some 315 acres in Mercer County, including portions of Princeton Township, Washington and West Windsor, has been scheduled for the end of next week or the beginning of the next, according to John D. Kegg, entomologist with the New Jersey Department of Agriculture.

Gypsy moth caterpillars have hatched and have begun to feed on foliage. "Highly effective, short lived sprays applied to foliage in May result in a caterpillar mortality rate of 95 percent," Mr. Kegg said. Insecticides to be used this year include Dimilin which is said to be non-toxic to bees.

Costs of the spraying program are shared, with the state paying 25 percent, the municipality another 25 percent and the U.S. Forest service the balance of 50 percent. Mr. Kegg stressed that the insecticides used give excellent control of the gypsy moth but are safe for humans and pets. In addition to chemical controls, the agriculture department releases statewide large numbers of gypsy moth parasites which it believes tend to reduce the length and severity of outbreaks in large parts of the state.

CYCLIST IS CHARGED

With Marijuana Possession. A 20-year old Princeton University student has been charged with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana.

Matthew Dallett was stopped Saturday morning on Nassau near Olden Street by Ptl. Randy Sutton for operating a motorcycle with an expired registration. As Dallett opened his wallet to provide identification, some marijuana allegedly fell out. He was issued a summons calling for his appearance in court June 8.

UNIT MEETING SET

By Voters' League. Consolidation in Princeton, land use in West Windsor and municipal government in Rocky Hill are the subjects of unit meetings scheduled this week by the Princeton Area League of Women Voters.

The meetings, which highlight studies made or planned by various local units of the area League, will begin with two meetings in Princeton on Borough - Township consolidation. These will be held Tuesday at 9 and Wednesday May 18, at 7:45 in the United Methodist Church, Nassau and Vandeventer Streets.

The League plans to ask for a consensus on a study of the Joint Consolidation Committee's report and send it to the Borough Council and the Township Committee. Babysitting is available at the Tuesday morning meeting.

The Rocky Hill Unit will discuss the final details of its "Know Your Township" booklet on Wednesday, May 18, at 6:30 in the First National Bank, Rocky Hill. The booklet will be published shortly as a result of a study made by the members of the League. The West Windsor Unit will discuss local land use controversies and the latest State laws affecting land use Thursday, May 19, at 8 in the Walter B. Howe Real Estate office, Hightstown Road, Princeton Junction.

PRINCETON FILLS POST

Dean of the College Named. Dr. Joan S. Girgus, dean of the Division of Social Science at City College of the City University of New York, this week was named dean of the college of Princeton University, following action by the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Girgus, whose appointment will be effective as soon after July 1 as possible, will succeed Dr. Neil L. Rudenstine, whose appointment to the position of provost of Princeton University was announced last month. She is the first woman named to the position.

In announcing the appointment, President William G. Bowen said: "Dean Girgus is an exceptional person, with a broad range of academic interests, a strong commitment to liberal education, a special concern for the nature of the educational process, and an extraordinarily impressive record as an administrator able to deal sensitively and yet firmly with difficult problems. We are very fortunate, I believe, that she has agreed to contribute her talents and her energy to our efforts to offer an undergraduate program of the highest quality. Faculty members from all divisions of the University, students, and administrators have supported the appointment of Dean Girgus in the most enthusiastic terms, and I know that a great many people look forward to welcoming her to Princeton and to working with her."

Joan S. Girgus

Dean Girgus was chosen from among a wide list of approximately 100 candidates from inside and outside the university. The search for a new dean was coordinated by Dean Rudenstine, and the campus group advising the president and Dean Rudenstine included members of the Faculty's Advisory Committee on Appointments and Advancements, the Faculty's Advisory Committee on Policy, and a group of five undergraduate students. In addition, alumni and many others interested in higher education have offered suggestions and advice.

As dean of the Division of Social Science at City College, Dr. Girgus has been responsible for administering a division encompassing a wide range of academic departments and programs ranging from economics and psychology to history and philosophy. At Princeton, her specific responsibilities as dean of the college will include oversight of the undergraduate program of study, the academic standing of under-graduate students, general responsibility for admission and financial aid, and various services designed to encourage the academic and personal development of undergraduates. Dr. Girgus has also been appointed professor of psychology at Princeton.

She received her B.A. from Sarah Lawrence College in 1963. She then earned both her M.A. (1965) and Ph.D. (1969) from the New School for Social Research, with a minor in philosophy complementing her major work in psychology. She also has a long-standing personal interest in the creative and performing arts.

Dr. Girgus is a native of Albany, N.Y. Her grandfather, Paul H. Mayer, was a member of the Class of 1905 at Princeton.

THEFT REPORT

Pork Loins and CBs. Among thefts listed by police last week were two pork loins valued at $50 each from a food locker in the kitchen of Westminster Choir College. The locker had been forced open.

An investigation by Det. Ronald Holiday revealed that a student was involved and the loins were recovered. Police report that the incident is being handled by officials at the college.

Robert Padderatz, 5G Holly House, Princeton Community Village lost an 8-track stereo tape deck and CB radio which were stolen last week from his pickup truck while parked in the Holly House lot.

Police said a vent window had been pried open. The tape deck was valued at $140, the CB unit at $100.

A similar theft was reported Thursday evening by a Trenton resident who told police that his car had been entered between 8:45 and 10:15 while it was parked on Witherspoon Street near Shirley Court. Taken from his locked car were an 8-track stereo and CB radio with a combined value of $230.

A canoe used only 19 months and valued at $370 was reported stolen Friday by owner David Johnson of 7Y Magie Apartments. It was last seen chained to a tree in the rear of the apartment around noon the previous day. Police report that the words "Mad River Canoe" are painted in white letters on the side.

A girl's bicycle valued at $60 was taken last week while in the rack in front of the First National Bank between 9 and 10 a.m. The owner is a Princeton resident.

Let The Renter Beware. Early this spring a man who used a driver's license to identify himself as Dennis Mills of 65 Conestoga Trail, Sparta, rented a power plane and three other tools from Taylor Rentals, 775 State Road. The four articles were valued at $336.22.

In a report to Township police last week an employee of the rental firm, Don Arnesen, said that when the items were not returned, it was discovered that the license Mills had shown had been stolen.

NAMED TREASURER

Of Bearse Campaign. Mrs. Clark A. Lennon of 19 Pardoe Road, has been named treasurer of the Bearse-for-Senate campaign.

A Princeton resident for the past 15 years, she has been active both in democratic party politics and community service.

Peter Bearse, seeking to win the New Jersey Senate seat being vacated by Anne Martindell of Princeton, is associate director of the Center for New Jersey Affairs, Woodrow Wilson School, Princeton University. He lives at 110 Leigh Avenue.

STUDENT IS CHARGED

With Breaking and Entering. Joseph Cichowski, a 21-year old Princeton University student, has been charged with breaking and entering at Princeton High School.

Later released, he is scheduled to appear in court next Wednesday. According to Chief Michael Carnevale, the police investigation reveals there were extenuating circumstances. "We don't believe there was any criminal intent," he said.

Police were alerted when an alarm at the high school sounded at 2:14 last Wednesday morning in police headquarters. Cichowski was seen running from the high school toward the Westminster Choir College campus. He was later apprehended at Franklin Avenue and Linden Lane.

Taking part in the search and pursuit were Sgt. Thomas Procaccino, Ptl. John Robert Mucciarelli, Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm, Ptl. John Reppe and Ptl. Anthony Gaylord and Ptl. Peter Savalli of the Township.

Nursery School Entered. The office of the director of the Princeton Nursery School, 78 Leigh Avenue, was ransacked during the weekend but nothing appears to have been taken.

Police report that an outer screen was ripped off and then a window to the activities room was opened to gain entry. Desk drawers in the director's office were ransacked and file cabinets overturned.

Ptl. John Hammond investigated the entry which was discovered at 5 p.m. on Sunday.

DRIVER FINED 4 TIMES

In Traffic Court. In Borough traffic court Monday, Gary Stryker, 524 Ridge Road, Kingston, was fined for four offenses.

He paid $35 and had his license suspended for 90 days for leaving the scene of an accident; $60 for no license in possession and $25 for careless driving. On a Township summons for reckless driving, amended to careless driving and heard in Borough court, he was fined $15 and $10 court costs. Judge Philip Carchman then suspended the fine for that offense.

Speeding cost Kim A. Larini, 5214 Fox Run Drive, Plainsboro, $16 and Lynn A. Jones, 32 N. Main Street, Pennington, $15. Alexander Jakimowicz, 1403 Fox Run Drive, Plainsboro, paid $15 for a red light violation.

In criminal court, Angelo Tamasi, 36 Wilton Street, and John Caruso, 31 Linden Lane, were each fined $15 for leaving unregistered cars on private property for more than 30 days -- a violation of a Borough ordinance.

Township Court. In Township court last week, Judge Carchman fined Valerie A. Greene, 121 Mount Lucas Road, $110 as an unlicensed driver. Joseph Hall, Village Road E., Princeton Junction, paid $20 for having no insurance card in possession.

Others: Patricia P. Davis, 5E Acres Drive, Pennington, $30, failure to keep right; Derric S. Landor, 3 Greenhalm, $25, improper turn; Simeon H. Hutner Jr., 28 Hibben Road, $30, red light; and Angelo DiFlorio, 206 State Road, $25, stop sign.

In criminal court, Dennis Wilson, 53 Bayard Lane was fined $60 and sentenced to 10 days in the County Workhouse for passing a worthless check for $103. The sentence was stayed for a week, pending restitution.

George Cedeno, 463 Prospect Avenue, paid $35 after his dog bit a woman who signed a complaint.

STREET FAIR SET

By Quarry Park Group. The Princeton Quarry Park Association which is celebrating the Borough's plan to acquire the old quarry site at the end of Spruce Street as parkland, will hold a street festival on Saturday.

The main purpose of this gathering will be to sound out all Borough residents on their ideas, hopes and suggestions for the development of the park. Even ideas for naming the park will be welcome. Among Saturday's activities will be children's games; a rummage sale; hamburgers, hot dogs, and Aunt Millie's sausage and pepper sandwiches; garden plants, bedding stock and potted plants for sale, as well as baked goods.

There will be live music, and the public is invited. Anyone wishing to donate baked goods or rummage for sale should call Mrs. Millie Intartaglia at 924-1863. Those who prefer to set up their own tables in the rummage sale are welcome also, and will be asked to donate ten percent of their sales to the PQPA. The rain date is Sunday.

BICYCLE TRIP SATURDAY

Open to All. The Cycle-Cycle community bike rides which are being sponsored by the Princeton Recreation Department will leave for ride number 3 Saturday morning at 9.

The group will meet at the Community Park pool lot for a ride to Port Mercer, passing by the Princeton Battlefield for a short rest. Arriving at Port Mercer, cyclists will go to Mercer Mall for refreshments before starting back to Princeton.

Everyone is invited. To register, call 921-9480.

DECISION REVERSED

In Sex Discrimination Case. In a unanimous decision last week, the Appellate Division of Superior Court found Princeton University guilty of sex discrimination in a case involving the promotion of Ilene Peper, when she held an administrative post at the University.

Thomas H. Wright Jr., an attorney for the University, said this week that the University has not yet decided whether to ask the State Supreme Court to consider the case, but "it is likely."

The Appellate Court, in its reversal of Judge Clifton C. Bennett's dismissal of the Peper complaint, sent the case back to Superior Court for assessment of damages which the University is to pay Ms. Peper.

Judges in the Appellate Court said Ms. Peper's charge of sex discrimination had been "clearly proved." She had not been promoted, the court said, although male employees in jobs like hers did win promotions. She "was treated disparately from her two male colleagues," the ruling said, "they were promoted and she was not. She was required to perform additional assignments by way of promotional tests and they were not."

The University "utterly failed," said the court, to prove that this different treatment was not based on the fact that Ms. Peper was a woman.

In Superior Court, Judge Bennett had accepted the University's statement that Ms. Peper was not promoted because there wasn't any vacancy to which she might have been promoted.

Ms. Peper, who is no longer in the University's employ, was co-ordinator of training and communications for the personnel office. She now operates Banner Business Associates, a personnel firm, at 145 Witherspoon Street. Mr. Wright has cited the personnel office's "strong commitment" to fair-employment practices.

WOMAN IS CHARGED

With Shoplifting. Julia Mueller, 33, 100 Einstein Drive, has been charged with shoplifting Saturday in Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Ms. Constance Johnson of the store's security department, who signed the complaint summons against Mrs. Mueller, told police that she observed the suspect place a brown dress in a shopping bag while in a fitting room. The dress is valued at $14.

Mrs. Mueller was taken to police headquarters, processed and released, pending her appearance in Township court May 19.

Raymond Quinton, 43, of Brooklyn has been charged with trespassing in the television room of the Princeton Inn College. He, too, is scheduled to appear in court on the 19th, after Proctor Samuel McKelvey signed the trespassing complaint at police headquarters.

VICTIMS ARE FOCUS

Of HOTLINE Rape Seminar. "The Victim of Rape" will be the topic of discussion at HOTLINE's monthly meeting, May 18.

A physician, a psychologist, a social worker and police detectives, all with particular expertise and concern relevant to the care of the rape victim will explain what each of them can offer to such a victim. The emphasis will be on specific information about policies, procedures and methodology. The needs of the victim will be examined in terms of what help can be made available, where and how.

Hotlines from all over the State will be sending representatives to the seminar, which is required for HOTLINE staff as part of their on-going training. Anyone interested in becoming a HOTLINE volunteer is encouraged to make arrangements with the director to join the seminar. For further information call the HOTLINE office, 924-1144 or 448-1144.

ORGANIZERS OF ARCHITECTURAL CAREER DAY: From left are J. Robert Hillier, Princeton architect, Robert Whitlock, chairman of the Industriel Arts Program at Princeton Day School, and Melvin Jones, head of Cooperative Industrial Education et West Windsor-Plainsboro High School. They were the prime movers behind the sixth annual Mercer County Architects Career Day in which 125 high school students met at Princeton Day School for critiques by area architects of their design solutions to a specilic problem.

CAREER DAY HELD

For Architecture Students. Robert Hillier, was among nine participating architects in the sixth annual Mercer County Architects Career Day.

Some 125 high school architecture students from eight area schools came together at Princeton Day School for a "hands on" experience of architectural problem-solving and exposure to architecture-related fields. Princeton architects Jerry Ford, Tom Fulmer, Phil Holt, Harvey Myers, Bob Prigge, George Pierson and William Walker, participated in the one-on-one critique sessions. Students had been asked to design a solar heated dentist's office.

Robert Whitlock, chairman of Industrial Arts at Princeton Day School, conceived of the idea of exposing students to a world beyond mechanical drawing as strictly a "shop" course. Mr. Whitlock, working with Mr. Hillier and Melvin Jones, head of cooperative Industrial Education at West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional High School, made Architects Career Day happen. Many Mercer County schools have upgraded their architectural offerings as a direct result of this program.

MAY BALL SATURDAY

To Benefit Ballet Society. As part of a three-year goal to raise the Princeton Ballet Company toward professional status, a May Ball will be held on Saturday in the Princeton William Room at the Nassau Inn. Co-chaired by board members Inga Pineo and Monika Puchner, (picture, page 5B) the May Ball will be the major annual social fund-raising event for the society, which maintains The Princeton Ballet Company founded by director Audree Estey in 1963.

The Joseph Scannella Orchestra will play for dancing from 8 until midnight. Virginia Bachalis, who has appeared at Radio City Music Hall, will sing show tunes during the full-course dinner, to be served at 8:30.

The candlelit ballroom will be decorated with baskets of spring flowers. Champagne will be served during dinner, and a cash bar will also be open for the black-tie affair. While invitations have been sent to friends of The Princeton Ballet, anyone interested in attending the May Ball should call Emma Wirtz for reservations at 921-8007.

MEMORIAL DAY SUNDAY

To Honor Police. Township Committee has declared the week of May 15 as National Police Week, and has set aside Sunday as Township Police Memorial Day in a tribute to all deceased officers, especially those who gave their lives in the line of duty.

All uniformed police personnel will "drape" their badges with black tape as a tribute to their fallen brother officers for 24 hours, beginning midnight Sunday and the police memorial flag will be flown at half-mast during the same period in daylight hours. Churches are asked to include in their program a special memorial diction in their honor.

CAR SHOW PLANNED

At Shopping Center. The Princeton Shopping Center, North Harrison Street, is planning a new car show on the Mall for Thursday-Saturday, May 19-21. There will be over 35 domestic and foreign cars displayed from area car agencies.

Besides the array of new cars, there will be a Hot Air Balloon demonstration on the Mall Saturday, May 21, from 12-5. This huge, seven story high balloon will be inflated for everyone to see, and if the wind is right, take a tethered ride. There will also be free helium balloons given away.

KITE PARTY! Dancers in a merry jig for joy on Princeton Battlefield at Saturday's Great Kite-Flying Day (quite a contrast to the last celebration at the Battlefield on January 3!). That's the Jaycees' centipede kite, winner of "most-kites-on-a-string and second-prize winner in "most spectacular."

(Cliff Moore Photos)

First Kite-Flying Day Draws 2,000

Were you out at dawn, with Roger Sherman and "Yellow Snake"? He won first place in "high flying" with Yellow Snake's 500 yards of altitude at last Saturday's Great Kite-Flying Day, and he was up at the crack, to get it all started.

Second place went to Jennie Rankin, Tod Weber and Ted Fishman for "Blue Phantom" (height unknown) and third place to David Laughton's kite, which hit 1,000 feet.

Well, it was a great day, even if the sun didn't break through until around 3. The sponsoring Arts Council is high as a kite – let's say "happy as a kite" – over the success of the day, and so were the 2,000 people who went, flew kites, or just ate and watched.

The largest kite award went to Philip and Ilse Johnson and Pierre Coutin for their eight-footer of plastic and bamboo.

Zinder's provided the prize – a big kite, no less! – for Larry Hasiak's first award winner in "most spectacular." Second place was the Jaycee's centipede, and third place, John P. Kukon's hawk.

A white silk kite with a green tail, in simple, sculptured form with two green streamers, head to tail, won first in "most original" for Joe Gladden. He was followed by Janet Kirton of Barbados, with her "Singing Angel" and Abraham Worcel in third place with his two-framed star kite.

Tiniest? That was T.K. Chu's, about the size of a matchbox. A kite sold by the Arts Council to Freddie Haitch, won second, and Bob Kleinman's came in a small third.

All during the day, Eleanor Thomas made fish kites and gave them away to children -- just to pull along in the wind on a string.

Incidentally, in case you noticed that food supplies were -- well, different -- from previous years, it's because of new and stringent Board of Health regulations. Food had to be covered, and was sometimes not even visible on that account, and there were more cookies and brownies because they are less likely to cause problems.

Because there was no electricity, music took a different tune from other years. Remember the sitar from India? The Morris Dancers with bells on their ankles? The "Rummage Sale Rag" played by the Curtiss Community Peoples Percussion Rummage Sale Band? (Who was that on frying pan?)

Anne Reeves, Arts Council president, who is behind these happy spring events, thinks there were 200 kites on the Battlefield. Of course, not all of them could fly, but they were awfully nice just laid out on the ground for everyone to see.

PLAZA DEDICATED

Near Firestone Library. Friends and family of the late Roger Stanley Firestone, a member of Princeton University's Class of 1935, gathered on the campus Sunday afternoon for the dedication of the Firestone Plaza. Bounded by Firestone Library, the Chancellor Green Student Center, and the University Chapel, the memorial plaza was made possible by gifts to the University from Anne Firestone (Mrs. Roger S. Firestone) and Laurance S. Rockefeller, a member of Princeton's Class of 1932.

The plaza, which has been part of the University's long-range planning objectives for many years, features widened bluestone walkways, limestone benches and sitting steps, tables and chairs, and additional plantings of trees, shrubs and ground cover. It was designed by Zion and Breen Associates of Imlaystown, the University's landscape architects.

Roger Firestone joined his father and brothers in 1936 in the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. in Akron, Ohio. In 1938 he became president of the Firestone Rubber and Latex Products Co., of Fall River, Mass., and he was president of the Firestone Plastics Co., of Pottstown, Pa., from 1947 until his death in 1970. Active throughout his life in civic and educational affairs, Mr. Firestone was a major donor, with his brothers – Harvey, Jr., Russell, Leonard, and Raymond (members of Princeton's Classes of 1920, 1924, 1931, and 1933, respectively) -- to the fund that enabled the University to build the Firestone Library, dedicated in 1948 in memory of their father, Harvey S. Firestone, Sr.

State's Residents, Tax Rebate Checks in Hand, Are Still Opposed to Extension of Income Tax

The property tax rebate checks, distributed in late March, have failed to alter opposition to New Jersey's income tax package. A majority of New Jerseyans still reject extension of the tax beyond its scheduled 1978 expiration date.

According to the latest Eagleton Poll, 56 percent believe the tax pachage should not be renewed when it expires in June, 1978, while only 32 percent favor its extension. The remaining 12 percent are undecided. Opposition to tax renewal is virtually unchanged since the last Eagleton Poll in January, conducted before property tax rebates were distributed.

Even among homeowners, 90 percent of whom report they received property tax rebates, 57 percent oppose continuation of the tax, 31 percent support it, while 12 percent are undecided.

Politically, opposition to the tax program is broad based. Large majorities of Republicans and Independents oppose extension. Democrats are somewhat more divided, with 38 percent favoring renewal, 48 percent opposed, while 14 percent are undecided.

Widespread Skepticism. When asked whether they favor immediate repeal of the tax package, New Jerseyans split evenly, with 45 percent saying "yes," 45 percent saying "no," and 10 percent undecided. In the January survey, support for immediate repeal was slightly higher, with 50 percent favoring repeal, 41 percent opposed, and 9 percent undecided.

The major reason the homestead rebate checks did not sway public attitudes is because of widespread skepticism about the need for an income tax or an alternative levy. When asked if New Jersey "could get along just as well without the state income tax and without any tax to take its place," 55 percent say "yes," 38 percent say "no," while 7 percent are undecided. Almost three out of four tax opponents – 72 percent -- say that the tax revenues are not necessary.

Poll analyst Mark Schulman commented that, "Public opposition is directed not only at the present income tax, but at any new taxes, whatever their form. The explanation is not that most New Jerseyans want a reduction in government services. Rather, they probably don't believe they receive a dollar's worth of state services for every tax dollar spent."

Mr. Schulman cited past Eagleton polls which show opposition to reductions in state services. "When confronted with the prospect of specific state budget cuts last spring, clear majorities favored maintaining or in some cases, even increasing expenditures in most areas," he said.

Despite strong sentiment against extending the tax, many provisions of the tax package are very popular. More than two out of three New Jerseyans approve of the limits or "caps" on state and local spending, property tax rebates, and increased state aid to local schools.

Respondents disapprove of the 2-2½ percent graduated income tax by a 63 percent to 32 percent margin, with 5 percent undecided. Overall, 61 percent approve of the tax package as a whole, 30 percent disapprove, while 8 percent are undecided.

THE UNCLUTTERED LOOK

At Viking Furniture. Despite the decreasing marriage rate, homes still need to be furnished. While garage sales may be the favorite haunt of first apartment dwellers, at some point most successful individuals (both men and women) begin to consider permanent pieces.

Choosing styles is necessarily a matter of personal taste, but given today's active life, many people find the uncluttered look of contemporary furniture most appropriate.

For 14 years Marty Bratman has been choosing the best of these lines for Viking Furniture. In preparing to leave on an annual buying trip to Scandinavia, he told us that 95 percent of his wooden pieces come from there because of the quality. He said, "As hurried as the world is today, the Scandinavian craftsmen still take time in their work and are proud of what they turn out."

The emphasis on design is evident in Viking's choice of unusual dining tables. For instance, a standard - size rectangular one can quickly be doubled in size, not by adding the usual leaves, but instead by pulling the table apart and flipping the two top layers back into the center. This Bankok teak table has edge banding, all of which matches even when extended, $439.95, and it comes in oak or rosewood too.

We also liked Drylund Smith's 43-inch round table which extends to 59 inches by pulling eight curved pieces out from underneath and attaching them to the perimeter. It comes in teak or rosewood, and the extension flaps form a lovely grained band around the outer edge, $589 for the teak.

Chairs probably best indicate the Scandinavian's penchant for design. Choices range from the very simple (and reasonably priced) to Westnofa's classic Panter chair, a top - grade leather recliner that can be adjusted to any position you find most comfortable. There is a matching ottoman which turns it into a lounge chair, and you have a choice of finishes and leathers. It is expensive, about $1,000, but the curved frame is exceedingly handsome, while the leather cushions are comfortable and durable.

Try A Siesta. Westnofa makes another great chair called the Siesta, and as a promotion Mr. Bratman arranged with the company to sell it for $279 which he says is an "unreal price." He said, "It is one of the few armless chairs that sit beautifully. It is in this country only a few years, but in Europe these sell the way McDonald hamburgers do here."

The chair comes in a high- or low-back style with a natural or stained beechwood frame, and the leather cushions are available in four colors.

Mr. Bratman also advised us not to think of leather only in terms of an office or den. The colors are actually very warm and they mellow beautifully with age. Viking even has a brown three - cushion couch, which although initially expensive ($1589), Mr. Bratman reports he sells to people who have re-upholstered three or four sofas and know that this one will last.

There are many wall systems on the market, but none with the quality of the Avanti by Dux. The possibilities are limitless as there are two basic widths, five finishes including wood and urethane, and many different doors, drawers and shelves. In addition, there are special features such as lighted display shelves, see - through doors, desks, bars, record storage and more. The finish is lovely, the drawers and doors open quietly and smoothly, and best of all, it can be moved with you.

Less elaborate, but equally functional for stereo systems are the music benches which start in price at $198. Basically they consist of two teak pieces which can be adjusted in width to fit a given space. Then within these, are places for components, records, tapes, a cushion, and in one case even a desk.

Bedroom furniture is another whole area at Viking and most popular are the platform beds with headboards and cantilevered night tables. They come in all sizes and like most contemporary furniture in several woods — teak, walnut, ash, rosewood or Santos rosewood from Brazil, $451 for the double size. We also noticed a variety of matching chests.

There are even contemporary ways to tell time such as with a Howard Miller steel pendulum chime clock. These are tall, narrow, see - through standing models that allow you to view all the working parts. There is a choice of styles, such as clear glass trimmed with chrome or smoked glass set in a teak frame, $450 for the latter.

We also admired two new art pieces by Sark, who once worked here. Using only natural wood inlays finished with linseed oil, he has made a large portrait of a Jazz player with such detail as piano keys, a cigar, patterned tie and buttons. The other depicts Thoreau's different drummer, and both use woods such as zebra, burled maple, English oak, Bubinga, holly, American walnut and others, $850 and $950 respectively.

Located at 259 Nassau Street, Viking Furniture is open from 9:30 to 5:30 Monday through Saturday with Wednesday evening hours until 9.

IT'S A FAMILY THING

At Arthur's. "If you just want to be a customer, go elsewhere." This is certainly an unusual policy to find in a retail operation, and yet these are the words of Arthur Hutkin, who for 28 years has managed a decorating shop in Lawrence Township.

WOOD VENEERS. This portrait of a Jazz player is composed of many pieces of wood veneer from more than a half dozen different trees. Treated only with linseed oil, the tonings are all natural and should mellow beautifully with age. Created by a man called Sark, this and another work are at Viking Furniture.

It's New to Us

business with each member responsible for a certain area, yet they all come together on their concern for people. Arthur says, "This is our family thing. We get involved with people. We talk to them, find out what they drive or whether they have pets. Then we try to coordinate with their taste within the limits of good taste."

Although this is a complete decorating shop with fabrics, wallcoverings and carpets, Arthur is particularly proud of the store's drapery program. First off, nothing is made from the customer's measurements. He goes to the house, measures the windows, and considers the appropriate choice of fabric and style for the particular setting.

"Often a customer sees a great magazine picture, but it might not be great in her room," Arthur said. "I like to style draperies and often offer alternatives that cost less." By the way, when he speaks of draperies, the shop actually works with cornices, roman shades, plain shades, and blinds as well as drapes.

His knowledge of fabrics is unusually strong, going back to his early training in his father's dress goods business where he was encouraged to feel fabrics and to test the weave against the light. He also attended a private decorating school and has been involved in this field ever since.

Without measurements it is impossible to quote specific prices, but Arthur's is competitive, particularly as they buy directly from the mills and supervise their own workrooms. Buying this way does leave them with extra pieces, and thus they always have a large inventory of fabrics, making this a good place to check if you enjoy sewing your projects.

Dakota Fabrics Outstanding. The fabrics come from all major houses, such as Schumacher, Greeff, Stroheim & Roman, Thorpe and others; and naturally Arthur's does upholstery, slipcovers, and bedspreads too.

Particularly outstanding are the Dakota fabrics which have a look all their own. Based on Indian motifs, one man creates the designs and color schemes which are then turned into bedspreads and matching fabrics with the help of the Indians. It is a cooperative effort and everyone shares in the profits.

Following her father, Susan Hutkin Fast attended the New York School of Interior Design and has joined the business. Her specialty is wallcoverings which come from every imaginable house. Susan said, "Outside of New York City, we have more fabric samples and wallpaper books than anyone. At least, that's what the salesmen tell us."

Some names include David & Dash, Katzenback & Warren, Thibaut, Greeff and Wall-Tex, plus others, all of which are discounted 10 to 50 percent.

These, by the way, are only current patterns of the first quality. Arthur feels a commitment to his customers to the point where he wants to supply extra fabric or paper a year later if for some reason it's needed.

In addition to Arthur and Susan, the staff consists of Mrs. Hutkin who handles the bookkeeping and John Fast, Susan's husband, who they all acknowledge as "very talented in everything." They are all people - oriented and anxious to solve any decorating problem, large or small.

Located at 2929 Route One, just south of Howard Johnson's, Arthur's is open Monday through Friday from 10 until 5:30, with Thursday evening hours until 9. Saturday hours are from 10 until 3.

MAILBOX

Schools, Library Starved.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The other day I received in the mail a check from "My" Township Committee. The letter that came with the check said that we had more money than we needed to run our public schools this year. What we spend now is "adequate," the letter said.

So the town fathers divvied up the "surplus" and sent everybody a check. It comes to 30 to 40 or 50 cents a day, depending on how fancy your house is.

I don't happen to think the funds our schools have are "adequate." I think our schools are being starved to death.

And I think my children are being cheated. And I think "my" Township Committee should be ashamed.

Basis for School Suit Defined.
To the Editor of Town TOpics:

Since several articles have appeared in the press in recent weeks about a possible suit against the Princeton Regional School Board by Lucy MacKenzie, a member of the New Jersey State Board of the League of Women Voters, and the Princeton Area League of Women Voters, we feel a letter of clarification would be useful.

The Legislative Reform Committee, under Lucy Kenzie's chairmanship, has been monitoring about 150 governing bodies, school boards and planning boards across the state during the last year to watch their compliance with the Open Public Meetings Act. Or, as it is often called the Sunshine Law. This law, passed in 1975 by the New Jersey Legislature, requires that all meetings of official boards be open to the public with very few exceptions.

The law specifically states that the minutes of all meetings should include the vote of each member of the board. This appears to the League of Women Voters to rule out secret ballots.

The Princeton Regional School Board was notified in a letter last October that the League of Women Voters would be monitoring its compliance with the Sunshine Law throughout the year. At several points during the year our observer did question some of the Board's actions.

On March 29, the Board voted for its new officers by secret ballot. When questioned on this point the Board of Education was advised by its attorney that its secret ballot was legal and hence a revote would be illegal.

With two such opposite opinions it appeared appropriate to us to seek a clarification of the law, and we are presently discussing the possibility with the Public Advocate's office. We in no way wich to imply an intent by any member of the School Board to circumvent the law; it is purely a difference in the interpretation of that law. We are sorry to take any of their time, as we recognize that the members of the School Board are overburdened as it is.

However, the League believes that the purpose of the Sunshine Law is to help citizens see clearly what goes on at meetings of their governing bodies -- an important and indeed necessary background for intelligent voting.

It is interesting to note that the Ewing Township League of Women Voters has a very similar complaint against its Board of Education. Its School Board also voted by secret ballot. The Ewing League is also discussing seeking a clarification of the law with the Public Advocate's office.

In West Windsor, the School Board was questioned by the League of Women Voters after voting by secret ballot. At their next meeting they conceded they probably had been wrong and revoted in public.

We sincerely hope this point can be settled quickly, and we can all give our undivided attention to seeking the best possible education for our children.

Town's Safety Endangered.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

As a concerned member of the Princeton community I have been attending the meetings of the Princeton Biohazards committee. I have heard the eminent scientists Dr. Chargaff from Columbia and Dr. Cavliari from Sloan Kettering warn of the potential hazards of this research and urge more time for evaluation and testing before proceeding.

I have familiarized myself with all available documentation, both pro and con written by distinguished scientists. I find the majority report contemplated by the community committee with recommendations for ambivalent regulatory control frightening and urge every citizen of this community to inform themselves on this issue and make their opinions known.

The health safety and welfare of the community is at stake.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is an open letter to the many friends and supporters who sent letters and signed petitions to the Board of Education in my behalf:

I could not let it pass without saying thanks for your generous cooperation and support as I sought to become the permanent Superintendent for the Princeton School District.

Our combined efforts are required as we continue to work to provide our children with a progressive and quality educational environment. My role as an educator will keep me constantly involved in helping to make meaningful education a reality for all children.

Assistance Appreciated.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Association of the New Jersey Neuropsychiatric Institute appreciates TOWN TOPICS' recent publicity for our April Annual.

We are also grateful to our sponsors, local merchants and those in neighboring areas, and to the many people who make contributions to our bazaar. We are especially thankful to our stalwart supporters who braved the inclement weather to shop in the tents and enjoy the fashion show-luncheon.

The proceeds from this event will benefit the 600 retarded residents at the Institute.

A Township Apology.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is a copy of a letter I have written to Robert H. Staples, Director of the Public Library, and members of the Joint Library Board:

On behalf of the Township Committee, I would like to offer our apology for being unable to attend the joint meeting on April 28. Two members of Committee can never attend on Thursday nights so I have asked Mr. Nini to try to re-schedule the meeting for the first mutually convenient date.

We were most aware that the Library Board wants to be "construction ready" when any public works money might become available. Your request at the last Library Board meeting was taken to heart. On April 27 we passed the 1977 capital budget which included $40,000 for the remainder of the architectural work. As you can see, this is almost the entire amount requested.

Even though we will be sharing the costs with the Borough, this should amply take care of any contingencies that might arise. In a sense, the Township put the cart before the horse in budgeting the money prior to your presentation. However, the 27th was the last meeting before the May 1 deadline for filing the capital budget with the State.

We look forward to hearing thepresentation.

Thanks for Snow Shoveters.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

With spring finally here in full force -- azaleas and dogwoods blooming, brighter, longer days, warm breezes -- it seems easy to forget what a cold, hard winter we had this year. But we would like to take this moment to thank some people, who, we are sure, have not forgotten that between December 26 and January 31 there were at least six snow storms, that the temperatures were abnormally low and that the weather was generally dreadful!

During this time, 177 Princeton students shoveled sidewalks, front steps and walkways for 182 elderly people in our town. This free, volunteer program, sponsored by the Princeton Joint Commission on Aging, was coordinated by Mrs. Mary Zimmermann with the full cooperation of the Interact student volunteer organization of the Rotary Club of Princeton. The officers of Interact, Megan Valentine, Rob Martin, Ellie Rose and Lucy Intartaglia, helped in setting up the shoveling service and the 63 members as "captains" followed up to make sure that everything went smoothly.

In spite of the weather, we can say with great assurance that the project was very successful in many ways. For most senior citizens the program provided security and the relief of knowing that there would always be someone there to help. For many it meant the beginning of new friendships. The immense good will that was generated by this effort made all the hard work well worth it.

Our warmest thanks to Mrs. Zimmermann and the students from the Commission on Aging and from the many Princeton senior citizens they helped.

NEW TENANT NAMED

For Forrestal Center. Arete Publishing Company -- which is preparing a general, multi-volume encyclopedia principally for the high school and university student market -- has leased 8,000 square feet in the three-story Prudential Building nearing completion at the Princeton Forrestal Center. It is scheduled to move to Princeton Forrestal Center, the 1600-acre office-research complex adjoining the Princeton University campus on Route 1, on September 1.

Arete is a new U.S. subsidiary of Verenigde Nederlandse Uitgeversbedrijven, sixth largest communications firm in the world. The parent company is headquartered in The Netherlands.

The Prudential Building, constructed by Prudential Insurance Company of America, is a three-story structure with 18,000 square feet on each level. It is the third building at the office-research site. The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation already has headquarters in operation; Mainstem, Inc., a major computer firm specializing in fleet cost and maintenance for the transportation industry now at 1101 State Road, is scheduled to move into its new building in July.

The research complex is part of an over-all plan which calls for development of the entire area -- into single-family homes, apartment, shopping and other facilities.

DEVELOPERS INVITED

To West Windsor Meeting. West Windsor Township to hold Industrial Site Sales Meeting for realtors and developers. Richard A. Dahl, Chairman of the West Windsor Township Development Commission, has announced that the Township Development Commission will sponsor a meeting at the Treadway Inn on Route 1 in West Windsor Township on Wednesday, May 18 from 4 to 6.

The purpose of the meeting will be to present information about the Township, including its master plan, current business development, and ordinances, and to allow for informal discussion between township officials, realtors, developers, landowners and cooperating real estate brokers. The meeting will include approximately one hour of formal presentation and another hour for informal discussion and refreshments.

Included in the presentation will be guest speaker Dan Goldenson, developer of Princeton Station Office Park and specialist on N.J. Economic Development Authority financing. Other speakers will include members of the development commission; Jack Baer, Township Committeeman; and Gene O'Brien, planning board chairman. All realtors, developers, and corporate officers interested in potential office or light industry sites are being invited.

Five new office buildings are now in various stages of development, and two new industrial office parks are also under way. There are approximately 2,000 available acres in the Township zoned for office, research or light industry, plus available site locations within existing industrial and office parks.

Benson Joins with Henderson Realtors To Replace Building Destroyed by Fire

The Benson building, totally destroyed by fire January 21, will be re-built with Lawrence E. Benson, owner of the old building, and John T. Henderson, Jr., Princeton realtor, as joint owners.

Reconstruction of the Witherspoon-Spring corner was announced this week.

Although the two owners have not yet selected an architect nor formulated specific plans, they said they would erect a commercial building with full lower-level space and upper offices.

John T. Henderson, Inc., which recently sold its 353 Nassau building to Atlas Corporation and is now at 4 Charlton Street, will occupy space in the new building. Retail stores and businesses will be tenants in the remaining space. Paul Hill, whose market was burned out, said his plans are still uncertain.

That space will be offered for rent, Mr. Henderson said, as soon as architectural renditions have been completed and Borough approval received.

According to Borough engineer George Olexa, the owners need only site-plan review and a building permit, if they plan a building with the same square footage and floor-area ratio as the old four-story structure. Any changes, however, could require appearances before Borough Zoning Board or Regional Planning Board.

Demolition of the old building may be completed by the end of this week, Mr. Henderson said.

WHAT'S LEFT: The last of a few walls and a few piles of rubble are all that remain of the Benson Building as the clearance project nears its final stages. Fire destroyed the three-story structure early in the morning of January 21.

Bond Forum Thursday

The features and benefits of municipal bonds will be explained in a public forum planned for 8 p.m. this Thursday by the nation's largest securities company, Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith at its Lawrence Shopping Center office on Route One.

Merrill Lynch representatives will also discuss the significance of bond ratings and point out which types of bonds fit various investment objectives. "Specifically, we will identify the bonds the Merrill Lynch municipal bond analysts feel are highly attractive in the current market," commented Al Merron, a Merrill Lynch account executive.

The forum is being sponsored free of charge by Merrill Lynch, but reservations are suggested. To reserve a seat call Gail Beck at 396-4051.

PROSPECT IS SCENE

Of Hadassah Dinner Dance. The Donor Dinner Dance, the culmination of an entire year's fund raising efforts by Princeton Hadassah, will be held Saturday evening at 8 in Prospect, on the Princeton University campus. In addition to dinner, there will be dancing to the music of Bob Lohman and the D.J.'s, plus a program by Ellen Gould, vocalist, accompanied by David Dingle.

Arrangements have been made by chairpersons Adele Agin and Harriet Fein, assisted by JoAnn Carchman, Toby Cowen, Elaine Ellerstein, Maxine Farmer, Pam Hersh, Marlene Horovitz, Anne Kahn, Anne Lowe, Phyllis Marchand, Carol Pollard, Martha Rossman, Nancy Schenkel and Barbara Vilkomerson.

Donations for reservations are $45 per couple, and may be sent to Mrs. Harriet Fein, 43 White Pine Lane. Proceeds will benefit the medical complex for research and rehabilitation of the Hadassah Hospitals at Ein Karem and Mt. Scopus, Israel.

TRAINING PROGRAM SET

For County Rescue Squads. The Princeton Medical Center and the New Jersey State Department of Health, Emergency Medical Services, will co-sponsor an emergency medical technician training program for Mercer County Volunteer Rescue Squads. The 81-hour training program, conducted at the Medical Center and Stony Brook School, is designed to prepare ambulance and emergency squad personnel, law enforcement and fire personnel, nursing personnel and members of the general public with a skill necessary to achieve certification from the State Department of Health as accredited EMTs.

Participants develop skills in evaluation and stabilization of a patient's condition, performing emergency care and utilizing emergency equipment. One of the most important aspects of the program is the utilization of the Medical Center physician lecturers with certified EMT instructors.

The total course of 25 sessions involves 71 hours of classroom instruction and 10 hours of in-hospital observation in various departments. Rescue squad members and other interested persons should contact Robert Hung, the State Department of Health, or Alan Haskins at 921-2008.

Medical Center Commended. The Medical Center has received recognition from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH) in observance of National Hospital Week, May 8-14. The letter of commendation, signed by John D. Porterfield, M.D., Director of the Joint Commission, states:

"The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals

Small Office Space Is Needed By Princeton Council on Alcoholism

If you have space for a desk, telephone, filing cabinet and a couple of chairs, the Greater Princeton Council on Alcoholism hopes you will call 921-3047.

The Council must vacate by June 15 its minute office in the St. Andrews building of Nassau Presbyterian Church (corner Nassau and Chambers). For a scant year, the Council has been using the donated office space as a base for its program of education and help, staffing the telephone from 9:30 to 2, Mondays through Fridays, (the answering service takes over the rest of the time), getting the message about alcoholism to teachers and school kids.

"What can I do about my wife/husband?"

"I'm 15–where do I go for help for my parents?"

"I'm 15--where do I go for help for myself?"

"How do you get somebody into a hospital for treatment?"

Questions like these occupy volunteers who answer the telephone, and the office staff when clients appear at the door.

The staff refers people to Alcoholics Anonymous, to Alanon – its branch for the spouses of alcoholics – or to Alateen, where teens with alcoholic parents are welcomed. Clients learn how to be admitted to Princeton House or Carrier Clinic; whether to turn to Corner House, Family Service or Trinity Counselling Service.

The Council is an affiliate of the New Jersey Alcoholism Association. It is funded solely through local Alcoholics Anonymous chapters, and has applied for a grant from the Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

commends The Medical Center at Princeton for its efforts to provide a high quality of patient care and services. Your willingness to participate in the process of voluntary accreditation demonstrates a professionally motivated desire to deliver a high quality of care; and, your accreditation is evidence that your efforts toward this goal have been successful."

CITED FOR SERVICE

By Community Council. Andrea Aughenbaugh of Hightstown and Anne Reeves of Princeton were honored for their distinguished volunteer service to the community by the Council of Community Services. The Rev. Dr. Jack Cooper, president of the council, read the citations at the Council's annual meeting.

Mrs. Reeves "has contributed to the mental health of Princeton by providing opportunities for people to experience a joyous sense of belonging to their community," explained Dr. Cooper. As president of the Arts Council of Princeton for the past four years, she has coordinated such town events as Art People Party, Elizabethan Fair, Nassau Street: A Living Museum, and A Picnic on the Bridge

Mrs. Reeves, who is an art teacher, is also a workshop leader for Helikon. She develops programs on Princeton history for the children's section of the Public Library and served as a member of the Princeton Bicentennial Commission.

EXHIBIT ON VIEW

At Historical Society. The Historical Society is celebrating the tenth anniversary in its headquarters in Bainbridge House with an exhibit on the 200-year history of the house and on the activities of the Society.

Exhibits chairman Nancy Frank has assembled a display of documents, memorabilia and photographs of Princeton history and the work of the Society. A special section is devoted to the "Hudibras Dig" in 1969 when excavation for the extension of Firestone Library uncovered the site of the Hudibras Tavern which flourished from 1760 to 1865.

Some of the photography archives assembled in recent years is also on display, including pictures which it is hoped some visitor will be able to identify. Transcriptions from the "Living History" tape recordings of personal recollections of Princeton in the past will accompany the photographs. The work of the Preservation Revolving Fund in the rescue of one Steadman type house and its removal to a safe area will be illustrated.

Bainbridge House is open to the public Tuesdays through Friday from 10 to 4 and on Saturday and Sunday from 2 to 4. The anniversary exhibit will be on display until June.

Nassau Presbyterian Church Votes to Convert St. Andrew's Into Community Support Center for Use by All of Princeton

A SANCTUARY FOR MORE THAN A CENTURY: This view of the interior of Second Presbyterian Church, later St. Andrew's Church, looks toward the stained glass windows fronting on Nassau Street at Chambers. The pews were removed last fall preparatory to proposed renovation as a fellowship hall.

A new chapter was begun Sunday in the century old relationship between Nassau Street's two Presbyterian Churches when the congregation of Nassau Presbyterian voted overwhelmingly to endorse a new plan whereby all the activities of the church would take place in the Palmer Square building. St. Andrew's Church, would become a community support center, designed to be self-supporting in three years.

Faced by spiralling insurance and energy costs, members of the Session, the governing body of the church, took a closer look at membership trends and contributions, and came to the conviction that it would be "feasible and wise" to carry out the church's ministry to its own members within one building. The Session also felt that the management and maintenance of two structures would require resources to the possible neglect of the church's mission beyond its own walls.

Earlier proposals for the use of the two buildings had called for renovation of the sanctuary of the Chambers Street building, as St. Andrews came to be called, into a large meeting hall with a big kitchen behind. Just last fall, the pews were removed from the sanctuary and sold as a preliminary step in renovations on the site. The Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church was built in 1840 after fire destroyed the gallery which was set aside for black members.

Second Presbyterian Church was organized in December, 1847, largely as a result of theological differences within the church and at a time when the First for which estimated costs ranged from $200,000 to $400,000.

The current plan, which requires architectural modifications to the Palmer Square building to permit multiple use of the Niles chapel, enlargement of the fellowship hall by removal of the stage and other changes in the three-story structure to gain added classroom space, will cost an estimated $150,000 for which a capital fund drive will be undertaken.

Community Support Center. The other part of the plan is the concept of the St. Andrews Center, which is still in the exploratory stage. The Session sees the center as a place which would bring together the people who need help — the elderly, the handicapped, or those in trouble — and the community resources which can help them.

A task force of 15 to 20 people interested in setting up such a center, of whom five will be church members will be formed to propose the structure and program of the center. The task force is expected to invite all groups actively engaged in meeting human needs in the community to participate and will report its findings by November 1.

The church would provide rent-free use of the facility, would restore the sanctury floor to usable condition and provide for protection of the organ. The church also stands ready to pay the difference in reasonable operating and maintenance costs between what the programs can pay and actual costs for up to three years and to provide $50,000 start up money for hiring a director and making minor alterations. The estimated total for launching St. Andrews as a center is $130,000, some of which will come from iovestment funds and some from current operating budget.

A separate non-profit corporation composed of Session members would be organized to own the property and to act as landlord.

Splinterings from First Church. Presbyterians first began worship in Princeton in the Prayer Room of the newly constructed Nassau Hall when the College of New Jersey moved to Princeton in 1756. The cornerstone of the First Presbyterian Church was laid in early 1762 and regular worship services were held by 1766 in the two-story brick building which was the first of three sanctuaries to be built

Beckett's 'Endgame' at Murray Theatre Is Labelled 'A Treat Not to Be Missed'

"Endgame," by Samuel Beckett, is not everyone's dish of tea. But for those who relish the kind of non-realistic theater of which Beckett is an acknowledged master, the production now on view at Murray Theatre is a treat not to be missed.

It is played by a professional company under the auspices of the Princeton University Program in Theatre and Dance, in association with Theatre Intime. Of more than passing interest to audiences here are the lead roles in the cast taken by Princeton's Professor Daniel Seltzer and the fact that undergraduates in the University's Theatre 312 course attended all rehearsals to learn from director Joseph Chaikin how a professional drama is brought to life on a stage.

Theatre-goers who have seen Beckett's best-known play–"Waiting for Godot"–will have some notion of what to look for and what not to expect in "Endgame." They will not find a story with a beginning, middle and end.

News Of The THEATRES

They will not find conventional characters in a readily identifiable setting. They will find very little of what is usually considered rational conversation.

They will find, on an almost bare stage furnished only with two lidded ashbins and with suggestions of a door and two windows high above the floor, Hamm–a blind man, of uncertain age but not young, installed in a chair on casters from which he never rises during the 75 minutes' duration of the play.

Attending him, with a marvelously clumsy, agile, double-jointed gait (he is unable to sit down) is Clov, a younger man, who is variously servant, adversary, nurse and confidant of Hamm. Emerging occasionally from the ashbins are the heads and torsos (presumably legless) of Hamm's chalky-faced parents, Nagg and Nell.

What happens? Almost nothing–and yet in watching these creatures and listening to their superficially weightless words a spectator—unless he chooses to be stubbornly unsympathetic—feels stirrings of understanding about his own experience in the world. fronting an abstract painting or hearing a piece of music. The impact may be different on each viewer, but if he has been open to suggestion he has thought, he has felt, he has seen some aspects of his life reflected.

There is a pleasure also in the subtleties of some of the dialogue, commonplace or even inane though it may appear on the surface. To wit:

Hamm: Clov!

Clov: What is it?

Hamm: We're not beginning to...to...mean something?

Clov: Mean something! You and I, mean something! (Laughs) Ah, that's a good one!

Hamm: I wonder. Imagine if a rational being came back to earth, wouldn't he be liable to get ideas into his head if he observed us long enough.

Again:

Hamm (to his father): Scoundrel! Why did you engender me?

Nagg: I didn't know.

Hamm: What? What didn't you know?

Nagg: That it'd be you.

With a play of this kind, the director is all-important. Merely reading the published play can be a barren experience; but Mr. Chaikin, founder of the Open Theatre and Obie award winner for both directing and acting, has put meaning into every pause, every change of pace, every gesture of body or face. It is a beautifully orchestrated performance.

He is superbly abetted by Daniel Seltzer as Ham and Christopher McCann as Clov. The former gives a masterful demonstration of the varieties of imaginative expression possible in a well-trained human voice. Mr. McCann's Clov is endearing in his ungainly alacrity and his patient fencing with the whims and rages of the blind man. Charles Standley and Shami Chaikin, as Nagg and Nell, both startle and amuse in their half-excursions out of the ashbins. Underneath the amusement, however, lurks a chilling sensation of the ugly futility of growing old.

Further performances of "Endgame" are scheduled from Wednesday through Sunday, with curtain-time at 8:30 except on Saturday when there will be two showings at 7 and 9:30.

—Herbert McAneny

weekend at McCarter Theatre. Screenings have been scheduled for 8 and 10 p.m. this Friday and Saturday. Tickets may be purchased at McCarter's box-office starting at noon the day of the performance.

Robert De Niro, who will have been on McCarter's screen earlier in the week in "The Godfather, Part II," plays a New York cabbie who becomes involved with the city's night people. His intense aloneness, as he is jostled, brushed and ignored by the crowd, abused and hassled by individuals, makes of him what one critic called "one of the most frighteningly crazy characters ever to be at the center of a major American movie."

In the supporting cast are Cybill Shepard, Jodie Foster, Harvey Keitel, Albert Brooks and Peter Boyle.

"GODFATHER II"

For Two Showings. The three-hour-long continuation of the saga of the Corleone family--"The Godfather, Part II"--will be given two screenings this Wednesday and Thursday (May 11 and 12) at McCarter. Each showing will be at 8 p.m. Tickets will be for sale at the box-office the day of the performance.

Part II of "The Godfather" presents both the beginning and end of the story, whereas Part I gave the middle. Characters are presented at different points in their lives, and it is possible to see the consequences of earlier actions.

This film tells the story of young Vito Corleone (Robert De Niro) from his Sicilain childhood to his rise to Godfather (the role played by Marlon Brando in Part I). Woven into this narrative is the story of Michael (Al Pacino), his involvement with a Las Vegas gambling empire and his efforts to control the rackets in pre-Castro Cuba.

Robert Duvall and Diane Keaton, both from the Part I cast, are in "The Godfather, Part II" and Lee Strasberg appears as a gambling tycoon who allies himself with Michael.

Director Francis Ford Coppola has deliberately deromanticized the Mafia, emphasizing the blood bond of the family, rather than the Corleones' charm.

News of the Theatres

through 14 Creative Theatre Unlimited has planned afternoon sessions--1 p.m. to 3:30.

This program will incorporate all aspects of theatre production, ending with a performance. Participants will learn how to design a set and costumes, how to weave music into a performance, how to make masks--and how to act.

Acting techniques will be explored through movement, theatre games and improvisation.

Team teachers for both groups will be Francia White and Joan Robinson, both of whom teach with Creative Threatre Unlimited during the school year. A member of the BBC Workshop on Experimental Acting Techniques, Ms. White specializes in acting; Ms. Robinson in creative arts. She is a former director of Trinity University's Children's Threatre.

Tuition is $75 and the registraiton deadline is June 3. Space will be limited to 20 students in each session. Registration may be made by writing Creative Theatre Unlimited, 33 Mercer Street, or by calling 924-3489 Monday-Friday, between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

"SLEEPING BEAUTY" SET

By Ballet Society. The Princeton Ballet Society, which every other year presents its School of Ballet in a full-length ballet at McCarter Theatre, is mounting a new production of "The Sleeping Beauty" this year, director Audree Estey announced. Two performances of Tchaikovsky's popular classical three-act ballet, with original choreography by the School's faculty, are scheduled for Saturday, May 28, at 11 and 2:30.

By double-casting the two performances, nearly 300 students will be able to participate. Chosen for the starring role of Princess Aurora is 16-year old Karen Russo from South Brunswick, who has studied at the Ballet Society since she was four and has been a member of the Princeton Ballet Company since she was 12.

The Prince will be danced by Justin Glodowski, who started his early training at the Ballet Society, went on to dance with the Pittsburgh ballet and is now principal male dancer with Princeton Ballet. Other principals will be Susan Olson as the wicked Carabosse who casts her evil spell to put the princess to sleep for a hundred years and Shirin Stave as the Lilac Fairy, the good fairy who counteracts the spell for a "lived happily ever after" ending.

Soloists include Eve Murto, Julie Opperman, Karen Steinnagel, and Gabriella Soltesz as Woodland Fairies; Andrea Juris as White Bird; Amy Stahl (alternate Christine Hart) and Willie Bonner, Red Riding Hood and the Wolf; Elise Glodowski and Jill Bonin, Puss and Boots; Karen Carter, Court Jester; Sara Punnett, Denise Kendall, Penny Kingan and Betsy Guerin as the Jewel Fairies; and Karen Brobst, Pierrette Newman, Robin Baxendale, Kristin Rodewald, Heide Sackerlotzky and Jennifer Benton as Aurora's Friends.

Choreography is being done by Linda Edwards, Sally Edwards, Audree Estey, Christine Klotz, Judith Leviton, Joan Lucas, Barbara Sandonato, Kasia Worrell and Alexei Yudenich, under the direction of Mrs. Estey, assisted by Mrs. Leviton, who is ballet mistress of the Princeton company. L. Wendell Estey is production manager.

Costumes have been designed by Gloria Woodside and Bonnie Brienza. Sets are by Broadway designer Stephen Hendrickson, and lighting design by Richard Warwinsky.

Tickets are now on sale at the McCarter box office, 921-8700. Prices are $4.95 and $3.95 in the orchestra; $4.95, $3.95 and $2.95 in the balcony.

CHORAL CONCERT SET

By Five PtlS Groups. The Princeton High School Choral Department will present its annual Spring Concert Tuesday in the high school auditorium at 8. The high school's five choirs will perform with some 265 students participating.

The Freshman Girls' Chorus will begin the program with two Mendelssohn compositions, "Lift Thine Eyes" and "Laudate Pueri" (opus 39, no. 2); "Cantate Domine," a composition written by Sarah Hommel, a junior at the high school; "Come In" by Randall Thompson; and "The Nightingale" by Thomas Weelkes.

The Men's Choir will continue the concert with "Der Herr Segne Euch" by J.S. Bach, two sea chanteys arranged by Bartholomew, "What Shall We Do With a Drunken Sailor?" and "Shenandoah," and "Down Among the Dead Men" arranged by Vaughan Williams. Both groups will join to present Pergolesi's "Magnificat" with string and piano accompaniment.

After the intermission, the Women's Chorus will sing Schubert's "23rd Psalm" and Persichetti's "Spring Cantata." The Choir will end the program with selections from Britten's "Rejoice In the Lamb," three of Brahms' "Zigeunerlieder" (Gypsy Songs), and Thompson's "Choose Something Like a Star." William Trego will direct all five choirs with Nancianne Parrella accompanying all groups.

FINAL CONCERT SET

In Trinity-All Saints' Series. The Collegium Musicum of Princeton under the direction of Joseph Kovacs will perform at All Saints' Church, Van Dyke Road, on Sunday, at 8. This is the tenth and final concert in the current Trinity — All Saints' Series and is open to the public without charge.

The program of chamber music will open with a Suite by C.F. Witt. Dorothy Kovacs, flute, Martha Helms, oboe, and Edward Helms, bassoon, will perform Antonio Vivaldi's Sonata in G minor. In the Trio Sonata in F Major by Jean Baptiste Loeillet which follows, Mrs. Kovacs will be joined by Joseph Kovacs, violin, Claire Holland, cello, and David Agler, harpsichord.

Nancianne Parrella, organist, will be heard with Mr. Kovacs and Mr. Agler in the Concerto in D minor for organ, strings and cembalo by Vivaldi, while Haydn's Trio in G major for flute, violin and cello will include Mrs. Kovacs, Mr. Kovacs and Mrs. Holland. In the final work of the evening, clarinetist George Jones will be the soloist in the Quintet in B flat major of Carl Maria Von Weber, assisted by members of the Collegium Musicum. A reception for members and friends of the orchestra will follow in the reception room.

CHOIR TO SING

In Alexander Hall. The Westminster Oratorio Choir under the direction of Dennis Shrock will present a program for double choir and brass Sunday at 8 in Alexander Hall.

The program will open with the "Deutsches Magnificat," by Heinrich Schutz which was written in 1671 at the end of the composer's life. The "1610 Vespers" of Monteverdi, a mixture of compositional techniques and styles, and "O Jesu Mi Dulcissime," from Symphooiae Sacre in the Venetian polychoral style, are both from the early Baroque period.

The middle section of the program will contain Mendelssohn's "Heilig," Brahms' "Ich aber bin elend," and "Ecce Sacerdas" of Bruckner as examples of the Romantic period's treatment of essentially a Baroque style. After the intermission the choir and instrumentalists will present two 20 - year old modern works, "Psalmkonzert" of Heinze Werner Zimmerman, a piece with a combination of Baroque and jazz on the chorale, "Now Thank We All Our God," and Daniel Pinkham's "Sinfonia Sacra" or Christmas Cantata.

The public is invited, and no tickets are required.

ENGLISH SINGERS HERE

In Folk Music Concert. Heather and Royston Wood, who are not related, will appear Friday at 8:15 in Pierce Hall, Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street in a concert sponsored by the Princeton Folk Music Society.

The Woods were at one time two thirds of a British folk trio known as "The Young Tradition" which toured the United States ten years ago, including an appearance at the Philadelphia Folk Festival. They were known for their mastery of close harmony a capella style and made three albums of British traditional songs before the group broke up in 1969.

Last year Heather and Royston Wood decided to get together again and make a short tour of the eastern U.S. They perform a variety of ballads, sea chanties and music hall songs and sing most of their material unaccompanied in close harmony. They have just recorded an album titled "No Relation" because of their identical surnames.

General admission is $2.50, students $2 and $1.50 for society members. Memberships will be available at the door, and there are no advance ticket sales.

ORGANIST TO PLAY

In University Chapel. Roger Ruckert, '77, principal Princeton University organist, will present a concert in the University Chapel on Sunday at 7. The program will include works by Alain, Franck, Liszt, Sokola and Tournemire.

Mr. Ruckert has played the organ for about 10 years, studying mostly with Claire Coci and Carl Weinrich. He has played at a number of New York City churchea and was the winner of the Jane Whittemore Competition, sponsored by the Metropolitan New York Chapter of the American Guild of Organists and a co-winner of the High School competition sponsored by the New York City Chapter, AGO.

The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

Auditions for 'Pirates'

Singing actors and actresses are needed by the Princeton Opera Association for its July production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pirates of Penzance" in Washington Crossing Park.

The production will be directed by Daniel Berkowitz of Inn Cabaret fame and Igor Chicagov of the Baltimore Opera. A large chorus is also needed.

Call Sylvia Rossman, 443-6655, for audition time.

RECITAL PLANNED

By Pianist. The Friends of Music will present Bjorn Jahren, pianist, in a free concert on Friday, May 20, at 8:30 in Woolworth Center. Mr. Jahren will perform works by Beethoven, Chopin, "Ballad" Opus 24 by Grieg and "Four Piano Pieces" Opus 22 by Valen.

He is a graduate of the Conservatory at Oslo and has given a number of recitals in his native Norway. In the U.S. he studied with Jacob Lateiner at the Juilliard School and performed at Woolworth Center two years ago. He received his Ph.D. from Princeton in 1975 and is currently a research associate with the Department of Mathematics.

CONCERT PLANNED

By Middle School Orchestra. The John Witherspoon School Orchestra, which consists of some 90 middle schoolers led by Portia Sonnenfeld, will present a spring concert Wednesday, May 18, at 8. The program is planned as an entertaining and educational event for all ages.

The concert will open with Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance" and continue with the finale from Haydn's "Surprise Symphony." The orchestra will then play an original arrangement of a film adaptation, from "Barry Lyndon," of a sarabande, or slow dance, by Handel.

The final work will be the young orchestra's own version of Leonard Bernstein's "West Side Story," complete with bongo drums. Learning this difficult music was inspired by a trip the whole middle school took to hear the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra play the original orchestra suite from the musical.

COUNTRY ROCK OFFERED

In a Christian Concert. John Talbot and Mike Warnke will present a joint concert Thursday at McCosh 10 on the University campus. Both men have undergone radical changes in their lives since becoming Christians and will share their new views of life through their respective talents.

The program, sponosred by New Creature Concerts and Living Word, will begin at 8. Admission will be by donation of $1 for students and $2 for non-students.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office. It costs 20 cents.

BUTLER WORK SHOWN

At Squibb Gallery. At the beginning of Howard Russell Butler's artistic career, the conflict between decorative and descriptive art was just starting in France. Popular taste in this country supported a literary approach to art in which the subject and its story was considered the major artistic element and stylistic approach was secondary.

European artists, however, were focusing on color and light, more concerned with capturing the impression of the moment than telling the tale. The courageous and imaginative young impressionists were sacrificing the public's approval for what they felt were the needs of art.

Despite the fact that Butler studied in Europe as well as with Frederic Church in this country, he protected himself intellectually from the dynamic conceptual changes that were taking place and confined himself to a more academic pursuit of his art. He was vigorous in his rejection of the impressionists and supportive of the more traditional approach. He made definite efforts to restrict the progress of the American impressionists by trying to limit their presence at the National Academy of Design.

Although Butler rejected the innovative and strongly supported a more reactionary attitude toward painting, his artistic sensitivity still allowed him to be visually responsive to many of the concepts he was intellectually rejecting. He was concerned with light and its effects and, in order to satisfy his artistic needs, he fragmented his color and developed a vigorous way with his brushwork together with a sense of visual immediacy that distinguished much of his work from that of his contemporaries. The exhibition of paintings, sketches and pastel studies at the E.R. Squibb Galleries (Princeton-Lawrenceville Road) demonstrate the growth and change in Butler's works and ably display his sensitive way with color and light.

The small pastel landscapes and seascapes maintain the freshness and spontaneity that makes sketches so pleasing. There is a sense of the artist's presence and a feeling of responsive immediacy in the presentation. Clear color and dramatic constructions are combined with poetic renditions. Butler's paintings reflect many of the taste changes that took place during his lifetime. An early, more literary work, the Seaweed Gatherers contrasts with the freshness and vigorous color statements that were to mark his later paintings.

His brushwork is painterly, lending vigor to the pictorial statements. The color sense is carefully balanced and then heightened by creative and interpretive color passages that are included within the more formal structure. Although there is a great deal of restraint in the presentation, reflecting Butler's conservative approach to art, there is wittin the standard concepts a sense of artistic excitement and creative response to his subjects that overshadows the more static approach to art and creates a strong visual dynamic.

At Gaffery 100. When identifying a primitive painting, the major factor in the determination is that the hand of the artist has not been altered or refined by training, and, instead, presents a purer if simpler point of view. In the case of Jane Currie Clark, the lack of formal training is apparent.

However, there is some question as to whether we should be asked to share the simplicity of the view. One usually expects a certain undeveloped, artistic refinement which is lacking in both the collection and the presentation.

What does come through is a great deal of sincerity and a good visual memory. For those on a nostalgia trip, the subject may justify the view.

A more sophisticated collection of paintings and prints is also on view. Small, deftly worked fanciful nature studies by Karin Laughlin, well constructed acrylics by Nancy O'Connor and a gallimaufry of watercolor and prints can be seen at the rear of 100 Nassau Street.

At Grover's Mill Graphics. Fanciful woodcuts by Marcie McDonald and paintings in wood by Sandra Carson are featured at Grover's Mill Graphics. Carson creates landscapes and design works from wooden segments that are color stained and reassembled within a frame in puzzle fashion. Color effects created by the translucent stain coupled with the effects of the many sections lend a jewel-toned mossaic affect to the works.

McDonald's technical skills support her concepts through expertly developed woodblocks which are then inked in several subtly combined hues. Her works have taken a fanciful turn and within the structure of the highly disciplined medium which this artist handles with masterful skill, she has created a collection of dream-like fluid landscapes.

At Owens Art Barn-Kingston. A new area gallery includes paintings, graphics and crafts in many modes. Hand-made clothing and the work of several area artisans is included.

3-MAN SHOW OPENS

At Kingston Farm. A three-man exhibition of contemporary art will be on display from Tuesday through May 28 at Fair Acres Farm in Kingston.

Mr. La Fone's paintings, widely known in the south where he works closely with Black Mountain School of Art, are strips and segments of water colored canvas.

Mr. Heitner will be exhibiting black and white photographs, stark images eyed for their visual composition which have been widely exhibited throughout the country and in New York. Hours for the show will be Tuesday through Saturday from 10:30 - 12 and 2 to 5. Fair Acres is located across from Franklin State Bank.

Minister Approves

The Rev. Wallace Alston, senior minister of Nassau Presbyterian Church and Moderator of the Session, said he was pleased by the two-hour congregational meeting that approved the new plan.

"It will allow this church to live more economically within its means and to free its resources for a mission to people who are in need," he said.

"It will free a building for programs of outreach, and because the church is not willing to decide by itself where people need this mission, it will address these needs with community assistance."

Church Congregation failed four times in a period of five months to agree on whom to call as pastor to fill the vacant pulpit. The new congregation met for a time in Mercer Hall at the corner of Nassau and Tulane Street and later in a building opposite the Nassau Street School.

The present church was built in 1868. John T. Duffield, a tutor and later professor at the college was one of the founding fathers, as was Archibald Alexander and his sons. The sanctuary, which originally had a large balcony down the length of both sides, was the largest assembly place in town and was used by the University for its convocations and commencements, as had the First Church sanctuary in its early years. There was a large organ in the rear, and the accoustics were considered to be especially fine.

The history of the two churches diagonally across Nassau Street from one another is marked with periods of cooperation and early attempts at merger dating back to the 1890's. When refurbishing was being carried out at one church, that congregation would worship at the other until the renovations were completed. The two shared pastors during the summer months and held annual joint Thanksgiving serivces, alternating sanctuaries and preaching duties.

Woodrow Witson a Member. Woodrow Wilson joined Second Presbyterian Church in 1890 when he first came to Princeton to teach and became an elder in 1897. In 1905 he supported a merger with First Church, and when it failed, transferred his membership to First Church. Second Church members dedicated the Woodrow Wilson pew, which has been saved, at the time of an extensive renovation, re-dedication and renaming of the church as St. Andrew's Church in 1965.

The current merger came aobut when both churches were without pastors in the early 70's when the Rev. Donald Meisel was called to Indianapolis and the Rev. Hugh Liffiton died suddenly in office. A three-way union with Witherspoon Presbyterian Church was first suggested but was voted down by that congregation. It was a moving and festive Sunday in June, 1973, when processions of ministers, choir and members marched out from their two respective churches to meet in the middle of Nassau Street. The first service was held in Alexander Hall with a reception following in Holder Hall courtyard.

CHAMBER SETS PROGRAM

For Princeton High Students. Princeton High School students will have a chance to learn more about the American economic system in a program Tuesday sponsored by the Princeton Chamber of Commerce.

The program will feature a half-hour animated film, "Freedom 2000," which traces the development of the free enterprise system from the vantage point of a visiting spaceship.

In morning sessions, Chamber representatives will lead discussion after each showing of the film. The film will be left at the school for use in other classes.

Alfred Merron of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith and James S. Bowers are Chairmen of the program. Frank Soda and Gloria Seitz of the high school staff are coordinating the program for the school.

The school program is part of a series of special Chamber of Commerce events during May. Membership in the Princeton Chamber of Commerce of the Princeton Area is open to representatives of all businesses and professions in the communities surrounding Princeton.

A SONG FOR LIBERTY: Caroline Moseley, Princeton guitarist and folksinger, will be the after-dinner performer at the American Civil Liberties Union annual "Mayfest" at the Unitarian Church, Saturday, May 21.

DINE (AND RAISE MONEY)

For A.C.L.U. A home-cooked dinner, accompanied by wine during the meal and American folk-songs by Caroline Moseley and John McDonald after the meal, will constitute the annual Mayfest fund-raiser for the Mercer-Hunterdon County chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

It will be held Saturday, May 21, at the Unitarian Church. A cash bar will open at 7 and dinner will be served at 8. Tickets are $25 for a couple, $10 for singles. The A.C.L.U. is asking that reservations be made, and the number to call is 921-7250 after 5.

The Mercer chapter, 113 E. Hanover Street in Trenton, received over 1,000 requests for help during the past year. Most are handled by the staff through advice and referral. If legal intervention is needed, volunteer A.C.L.U. lawyers in the area are called in. For example, Princeton attorney Frances Goldmark Massie won a case before the Civil Service Commission in which back pay and lieutenant's rank were restored to a corrections officer who had been demoted for reporting to his state senator that poor conditions and racial prejudice existed in the corrections system. Alan Y. Medvin has entered an amicus brief with the state Supreme Court asking that parental responsibility ordinances be declared unconstitutional.

The A.C.L.U. was also instrumental in cancelling punitive action levelled by a union against a member because she discussed union business with her husband, and in defending Spanish-speaking residents of Trenton who charge brutality by police.

The organization sponsored a conference in Princeton against restoration of the death penalty, and frequently supplies speakers to schools and organizations.

TWO TOURS PLANNED

By Watershed Association. A bicycle tour along Canal Road and a trip to the Pine Barrens have been scheduled by the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association for the next two Saturdays.

Planned for this Saturday, the bike tour will leave at 9 a.m. from the junction of Route 518 and Canal Road, Rocky Hill, and travel Canal Road to East Millstone, a distance of about 12 miles on level ground. Participants should bring along lunch and a drink. Rain date is the next day; cost is 50 cents. Safety vests should be rented or purchased from the association.

The tour of the Pine Barrens has been rescheduled for Saturday, May 21. It includes a stop at the U.S. Northeastern Forest Experiment Station at Lebanon State Forest, a slide presentation on Pine Barrens Ecology Ecology, a tour of selected sites and a picnic (bring lunch).

Common Cause Eyes Gubernatorial Races, Reports on Candidates' Varying Viewpoints

(This is the first of a series of four articles on the state's 1977 gubernatorial election written for TOWN TOPICS by Robert Willis of New Jersey Common Cause.)

WE TAKE ISSUE

June 7 could prove to be a very confusing Primary Election Day for the New Jersey voter. Like trying to put your money on a winner in a field of 15. Tough choice!

One's tempted, in exasperation, to go with a remembered name, a well-advertised TV face, an "old pro" endorsement, or a record of former races won. Would solve the problem, certainly. With all these comforting solutions, however, we take issue.

Indeed, the issue's the thing! In an attempt to discover where and how the candidates might act after the race, Common Cause has mailed every gubernatorial candidate in a contested primary an "open government" questionnaire. We wanted to know each candidate's position on such issues as conflict of interest and freedom of information, taxes and energy, campaign financing and sunset legislation, financial and lobby disclosure.

To date, three of 11 Democrats (James Florio, A. Howard Freund and Paul Jordan) and three of four Republicans (William Angus, Raymond Bateman and Tom Kean) have responded. Over the next four weeks, through this column, we will highlight the significant positions of replying candidates. Perhaps the clarity of issues addressed and stances taken may help us all choose more wisely come early June.

So let us begin.

common cause NEW JERSEY

Watergate, the "Korean scandal," Elizabeth Ray and Wayne Hayes, Robert Sikes of Florida -- all red flags signaling the misuse of governmental power for personal gain. Trust in our elected officials sinks lower with each new revelation; trust will only return when government effectively roots out that ancient and well-protected poisoned oak -- political conflict of interest.

What actions might we expect in that regard from our prospective governors?

All seven candidates agree that some conflict of interest legislation is desirable. All would actively support and sign a bill that would prohibit state and local officials from using their official position to obtain financial gain for themselves, their families, and their business associates. Two of the Republicans (Angus and Kean) and two of the Democrats (Florio and Jordan) would support a conflicts law which applied at all levels of government; Bateman and Freund indicated that they would have to review the particular bill before making a commitment.

Under existing law, a single individual may hold more than one elective office, serving, for instance, as a mayor and as a member of the Legislature. Common Cause would like to see an end to dual-office holding, a situation that may readily generate conflicting loyalties and responsibilities. Angus and Kean would support such a ban on dual-office holding; Jordan, Florio and Freund would not support such legislation -- with Florio reasoning that it is up to the voters, not the law, to decide in each instance. Bateman reports himself as undecided

Another ever-present potential for conflict of interest is the "revolving door" habit of high government appointees, especially in regulatory agencies. With a new administration and a new set of appointees, nothing is easier than for the former official to take a position with an organization he formerly regulated: He's known, he knows the industry, the problems, the people, and has the contacts within his former agency which may be well used for the organization's advantage.

The candidates were asked if they would require from their major appointees a signed pledge that they would not, for a two-year period after leaving an agency, work for any company or organization which was affected by proceedings in which they had participated. Only Freund and Bateman said no, while Florio would favor a law over a pledge. All but Freund would also require that for the same period they would not represent any party before their former agency.

With the exception of Freund, the candidates would also require all major appointees either to divest or create a blind trust for any holdings that might place them in conflict with their governmental responsibilities. And the candidates themselves would do the same should sources of conflict be present.

For the record, these men, should they win the governor's race, have pledged themselves to differing courses of action calculated to rebuild the citizen's trust in his representatives. We happily don't have to rely solely on a name, a face, an endorsement or a record. An informed vote on June 7 carries with it a new hope – and a promise.

Audubon Society will speak at the association's annual dinner this Friday, at the ETS Henry Chauncey Conference Center.

He will discuss the battles over a major land use bill which has been before Congress for a number of years and is sure to reach a climax during 1977-78. For further information, on the Association and for reservations, call (609) 737-3735.

SEMINAR MONDAY

At YWCA On Deafness. Hearing Loss and other communication problems of the elderly will be discussed at the sixth YWCA Seminar on Aging to be held on Monday, at 9:30 a.m.

Elin Gurshy, speech pathologist and teacher of the deaf at Merwick, and Rosemary Bruch, audiologist with the Communications Disorders Unit of the Medical Center at Princeton, will explain diagnostic procedures and types of hearing loss as well as remedial techniques available to individuals whose hearing is impaired. An introduction to lipreading will also be presented.

The Seminar is open to the public. A registration fee of $1.50 may be mailed or brought to the YWCA office. For more information, call Anne O'Brien, 924-4825, ext. 22.

WORKSHOP SET

On Meditation. Dr. Patricia Carrington, clinical psychologist and lecturer at Princeton University, will lead an instructional workshop in meditation for both men and women on Monday at 8 at the YWCA.

Dr. Carrington's most recent book, "Freedom in Meditation," combines scientific research with psychological theory. Her westernized meditation, classically standardized meditation (CSM), is said to be beneficial in counteracting daily stress. In providing men and women with an opportunity to become in touch with inner resource, it can result in an increase in self-assurance and ability to deal contructively with situations.

There is no fee for the workshop, but each participant is required to purchase a copy of the book at $8.95 as the working manual for the course. Call the YWCA, 924-4825 ext. 13, to register.

SPRING FLING FRIDAY

At High School. The Princeton High School Spring Fling '77, Staff/Community Dance, will be held Friday, at 9 in the large gymnasium.

Jack Horner's "big band" sound will provide the beat for dancers and non-dancers alike. The gym will have special decorations, and refreshments will be served. Tickets at $2.50 per person are being sold in all school buildings and may also be purchased at the door.

Eastern Rowing Championships Here Saturday; Penn and Harvard Seen as Likely Co-Favorites

The Eastern Intercollegiate Sprint Rowing Championships, one of the major events on the college sports scene, will be staged Sunday on Lake Carnegie. Sixteen colleges, most of them entering freshman, junior varsity and varsity crews at both the 150-lb. and heavyweight level, will compete, drawing several thousand spectators to the area near the finish line just west of the Kingston dam.

Until last week, it appeared that Harvard would again dominate the event, as it has for the past five years. On Saturday, however, Pennsylvania went to Cambridge and edged the Crimson by a scant foot in their annual race for the Adams Cup.

Since the Quaker 150-lb. crew is unbeaten, the possibility exists that Penn might replace Harvard as winner of both the Rowe and the Jope cups. These trophies are awarded on total points credited to all crews racing, so that balance is of maximum importance. Penn's heavy freshmen also won Saturday at Cambridge from both Harvard and Navy.

Princeton, victor over Penn last month in the Child's Cup, should make the six-boat final but is not considered likely to finish ahead of either of the co-favorites. Its triumph over Penn, achieved in unusually rough water off Long Island sound, was not wholly indicative of the respective ability of the two colleges.

Coach Pete Sparhawk's crew spent last week recovering from a virus that has infected a number of its members, with two others out of action with sprained backs. As a result, they withdrew from the Carnegie Cup regatta at Derby, Conn., on Sunday, the first such default in Princeton's long rowing history. Cornell won the event by half a length over Yale and will enter Saturday's race as the only unbeaten varsity heavyweight shell.

Cornell, Northeastern, and possibly Wisconsin are others expected to do well. Princeton is also a factor at the 150-lb. level, since the Tiger lightweights trailed Penn this spring by only half a second. Harvard, victor in the Goldthwait Cup regatta over Princeton and Yale on Carnegie Sunday afternoon, is also strong.

The first heat in the morning is scheduled for 8:45, and the last at 12:30. The first of the afternoon finals will start at 2:30, and these will run about three hours, with all races at 2,000 meters and top weather conditions essential to bring the best crews in under six minutes. Grandstands are erected for spectators; admission to the finish line area is $3.

Ball Team at Home. All other home action save that in baseball has ended. The Tiger nine will play Wednesday, Friday and Saturday on Clarke Field, facing Trenton State, St. John's and Lafayette in that order to close out its season.

The ball team's slide was accentuated last week as it split 1-0 decisions in midweek, losing to Rider and beating Rutgers by that score and then was decimated in a doubleheader at Cornell. The scores at Ithaca were 9-1 and 13-4 and the Tigers' problem there was that they made as many errors in the two games as they did hits -- eight of each.

Against Rider, Bob Tufts took the loss as the team suffered its second shutout in its last three games. At New Brunswick, the brightest point of the season was achieved when the Orange and Black shut out the Scarlet this spring for the second time, totalling 13 runs in its two games with the Knights to their none.

Matt Gorman, a junior lefthander, scattered seven hits and struck out five in earning his second shutout of the year. The victors' lone run came when left fielder Joe DeGeorge singled in the second, went to third on a hit-and-run engineered by sophomore right fielder Ed Kish and then executed a double steal perfectly with Kish.

Tufts and Paul Zoubek were hammered steadily in the games with Cornell Saturday, the Tigers' record in four doubleheaders this spring ending at 2 and 6 even though they had their two best pitchers available for three of them. A game with Army at West Point Friday was rained out and will not be rescheduled because neither team is still in the Eastern League race. In that, Columbia has finished its season with an 11-3 mark but Cornell and Harvard, with several games left, remain in the running.

Lacrosse Team Splits. An upset of seventh-ranked Rutgers more than atoned for the expected defeat at the hands of Cornell last week, as Princeton's lacrosse team left itself a chance to earn a berth in the NCAA Tournament. The Tigers may get there if they can beat Army Saturday at West Point in the last game on their schedule.

Rutgers' defense concentrated on holding Wick Sollers, the Tigers' leading scorer in check, and did so to perfection when he failed to make a goal. The visitors' oversight was, however, expensive: they failed to pay adequate attention to a pair of Princeton freshmen, whose eight-goal output was one more than the Knights managed as a team.

Princeton led, 4-1, after 15 minutes on rain-splashed Finney Field but was held scoreless in the second quarter, during which Rutgers beat Tiger goalie Kevin Gray twice. Shortly after action resumed, the Scarlet drew even at 4, but Thomas put the Orange and Black into the lead for good with a pair of goals and senior Dave Tickner's shot as the period was ending made it 7-5. A 5-2 Princeton surge in the final 15 minutes raised it to 12-7 at the end.

At Ithaca, Cornell was ahead, 3-0, after one period and 9-2 at the half. A brief Princeton rally cut the deficit to 10-5 but the Red prevailed, 15 to 7, on its way to its fifth straight Ivy title. No. 1 nationally, the Ithacans have won 27 Ivy games in a row and 25 straight against all comers.

Any tendency on Princeton's part to look beyond Saturday's game with Army to a possible NCAA berth might be costly, but if they do make it into the playoffs for the first time since the tournament was instituted half a dozen years ago, the Tigers may have a sense of deja vu. Chances are they will be seeded against this same Cornell team at Ithaca on May 18.

The crucial period begins this Wednesday with a game at Summit, continues Friday at 3:45 when the Little Tigers entertain Johnson Regional High School and ends Monday in a makeup game with Livingston.

Cirullo reported that he has scouted Summit during one-goal losses to Peddie and Lawrenceville (PHS lost to the same two schools, also by one goal) and predicts a close game. Summit, he added, "has monsters on defense, averaging six feet, 225 pounds. I'm sure they must be interior linemen from the football team."

Johnson Regional, the former Clark Lacrosse Club, tagged a distinction on PHS last year which Cirullo would like to forget. With an all-senior team, Johnson defeated PHS 18-1, "the worst score ever inflicted on us," said Cirullo.

This year they are almost as explosive, climbing to the number two ranking behind Montclair when Boonton was upset. Columbia, which PHS upset last week for its first loss, is ranked fourth.

PHS Wins Fifth, 7-4. PHS retained its ranking in the top 10 with a fine 7-4 win Saturday over visiting Hunterdon Central. The outcome enabled PHS to widen its won-lost record to 5-3. Princeton lost those three matches by a total of four goals.

Although Hunterdon scored with 30 seconds left in the first half to close to 4-3, PHS was able to maintain its superiority in the second half. The score went from 5-3 to 6-4 to 7-4. "I was very anxious on the sidelines; I'd seen 2-3 goal leads disappear before," commented Cirullo.

Morgan Morhman, the top Little Tiger scorer, led the team again with three goals. "His one-on-one play was outstanding," Cirullo said. Chris Cahill, the second leading scorer on the team in goals, added two more against Hunterdon.

Middy Doug Firstenberg scored his first goal on a nice slapshot in the crease while Matt Adriance, attack, had Princeton's other goal.

"I was optimistic at the beginning, I felt we had good players in key positions," said Cirullo. That optimism will face its stiffest test this week.

STRONG A WINNER

In Invitational Track Meet. Princeton High sprinter Tony Strong won the 200-meter event in 22.5 and placed second in the 100 meters in the Bernard Spring Invitational Track Meet held Saturday.

PHS freshman John Kellogg placed second in the 1,500 meters with a clocking of 4:28.7, while Barry Turner was third in the long jump with a leap of 20-11¼. Powerful Trenton High captured four firsts, two seconds and three thirds.

In a dual meet last week, the Little Tigers managed only three firsts in losing to West Windsor, 96-34½.

SPORTS FANS! I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you By John Bernard

Here's one that may surprise you...Of all the major league baseball teams, which one has won the most games in the last 20 years?...Answer is the Baltimore Orioles ...Second is Cincinnati and third, the Yankees.

Here's something to watch this baseball season...If slugger Willie Stargell of the Pirates strikes out 113 times this year (which is a possibility based on his past record), he will set the all-time record for striking out more times than any other player in major league history.... Mickey Mantle, who struck out 1,710 times, now holds that record, but Stargell started this season with 1,598 strikeouts, and if he gets 113 more, he'll pass Mantle.

Amazingly, a big league baseball pitcher once won EVERY game his team won over a complete season! ... Pitcher Will White of Cincinnati won 43 games in 1879 ... Cincinnati won only 43 games that year – so White won 'em all! ... There's a record that'll probably never be broken.

I bet you didn't know...that our $10,000 deductible major medical with a $250,000 limit could cost a man age 50, wife age 48 and two children as little as $240 per year.

PDS SEEDED FIRST

In Post-Season Playoffs. A good indication of how well the season is progressing for the Princeton Day baseball team was provided last week, when the Panthers were seeded first in the Prep School B division of the state tournament. This year is the first in several that the team has even won the right to participate in the playoffs.

The first seed gave the Blue and White a bye in the first round, and it will meet the winner of the Pennington-Gill-St. Bernard's game. No date has been agreed upon, but it will probably be the beginning of next week on a neutral field.

Meanwhile, the Panthers' good fortunes on the diamond continued to hold up as they won two more games last week to raise their record to 8-1. On Tuesday PDS coasted through a 17-6 pasting of Gill-St. Bernard's, and Friday it squeaked by Wardlaw, 8-7.

Coach Tom DeVito hardly needs to be reminded how well things are breaking for his team, but the victory over Wardlaw, made possible by a triple play in the final inning, provided more evidence.

Trying to hold onto a one-run lead in the bottom of the eighth, PDS suddenly found itself facing a bases loaded, no outs situation, made possible by an error by Jay Nusblatt, a single and a walk.

The next Wardlaw batter hit a line drive that Nusblatt speared with a fine leaping catch, then stepped on second and threw to third for a game-ending triple play. If the ball is a few inches higher, the game also ends, but in Wardlaw's favor.

Earlier the Blue and White had fought back from a 5-2 deficit, to take a 7-3 lead with a four-run rally in the fifth. Mike Walters got things going with a triple, and after John Hickling grounded out, Evan Press walked and stole second.

Tony Knott singled both home and later rode home on a double by Quinn McCord. While Nusblatt walked, McCord stole third, and scored the fourth run, when he and Nusblatt worked a successful double steal.

McCord, the offensive star of the game with three hits in three at bat, two RBIs and four stolen bases, also figured in the winning run after Wardlaw had tied the score at seven all in the sixth. Press walked, stole second, reached third on a sacrifice by Knott and came home on McCord's single through the middle.

Dave Barondess won his second game against one loss, striking out five, walking five and giving up six hits. PDS had eight hits, two by Lou Guarino.

22 Bases on Balls. Against Gill-St. Bernards, the Panthers strolled around the bases all afternoon long, receiving what must be a record 22 walks. In scoring 17 runs, PDS only needed four hits, two of them bases loaded singles by Frank Piccolella and Nusblatt.

Walters, who got the team's other two hits, coasted along to his sixth win of the season without a loss. The two teams committed seven errors between them in a contest that "set baseball back several years," according to DeVito.

In addition to the playoff games, the Panthers have their regular season games to think about. These include Allentown away this Wednesday and Newark Academy home on Friday. The Lawrenceville game scheduled for this past Monday was postponed to later in the month because of wet grounds and cold weather.

KEY WEEK AHEAD

For PHS Lacrosse Team. "If we lose all three, we'll be in bad straits for the state tournament; if we win all three, we'll be sitting high."

That's the way Bill Cirullo, Princeton High lacrosse coach views his next three games, which he feels will determine whether this year can be called a success or not.

Bob Wyland won the quarter mile in 55.6. Brad Ogilvie the 880 in 2:08.7 and Turner the long jump with 19-6. Jim Scheidler won both hurdle events and Tray Conte the 100 and 220 for the Pirates.

NO LET UP IN SLIDE

Of PHS Nine. There was no let up last week in the continuing slide of the Princeton High School baseball team.

The Little Tigers lost 11-2 to Hopewell Valley on Friday and 12 to 2 to West Windsor earlier in the week. Both were Colonial Valley conference setbacks, the ninth and tenth in a row.

Coming up are two more conference games--Lawrence High on Thursday and Hightstown here Monday at 3:45.

Hopewell won its tenth game of the season when it bunched four of its seven hits for nine runs in the fourth to break a 2-2 tie. Five errors by the Little Tigers also contributed to their downfall.

PHS scored one in the first on Johnny Miller's single and Bruno Perna's triple. In the second, Keith Phox singled, stole second, advanced on a wild pitch and came home on John Rosenthal's single to tie the game, after the Bulldogs had scored twice in the opening frame.

Jim Baxter went the distance for PHS and suffered his second loss against no wins. He struck out one. Mark DeLucia of Hopewell upped his record to 4-0.

Earlier in the week, west Windsor hurler Dave Howard limited PHS to two hits, one a double by Al Kandell that drove in one run and the other a run-scoring triple by Perna, en route to his second win in five starts.

The Pirates reached PHS starter Carl Mazarro for four runs in the first and added six more in the fifth.

4 GAMES IN 5 DAYS

For Hun Nine. After losing out to the weather and some sloppy play afield, the record for the Hun baseball team last week was 0-1. As a result, Hun once again dipped below .500 with a 5-6 mark.

Hun will have little time to reflect. Wednesday it will play Mitchell Prep away, entertain Germantown Friends Friday at 3:30 and West Windsor Saturday at 1 and finally host Pennington on Monday afternoon in a makeup of a game postponed last week by the weather.

Hun was leading Peddie Saturday 4 - 0 after five innings but then, commented Hun coach Bill McQuade, "the roof caved in." The cave-in, unfortunately, was largely of Hun's own making.

Hun, said McQuade, made four errors and two mental errors in the last two innings when Peddie scored all five of its runs to win, 5-4. "We just played dumb baseball, which surprised me," added McQuade. "We're not winning the close ones anymore."

Hun scored two runs in the fifth when Tim Teel's single sent one runner across and a wild pitch another. Earlier, Angelo Barbero had singled home another run.

But when Hun became unglued in the final innings, the "super ballgame" they had played up to that point, in support of pitcher Freddie Wollman, went for naught.

So, too, did a game with George School on Friday which was called after four innings because of rain with Hun leading 7-0. "Just another 20 minutes and we would have gotten it in," said McQuade. Wasted were Tom Dillion's home run, three hits by Jimmy Cortina and a one - hitter by Hun hurler Bob Kwiatoski.

Tennis Titles. In what may have been a first, Princeton High School freshman Scott Clark and his sister, Karen, a junior at PHS, each won individual titles in the finals Sunday of the Mercer County High School Tennis Tournament.

Scott, seeded first, defeated John Connolloy of Hopewell Valley High School, the second seed, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5. Karen defeated Jill Migliori of Princeton Day School, 6-4, 3-6, 7-6, capturing the tie-breaker, 5-3. In the girls doubles finals, Ellie Rose and Janice Phillips

Various Factors Contribute to Long Slide Downward PHS Baseball Is Now Undergoing

It didn't figure to get worse. Not at all. But so far it has.

After winning its opening game early in April, the Princeton High School baseball team has lost ten in a row. "I gave myself four years to turn the sport around," said PHS coach Jim O'Neill. "At this point I'm terribly disappointed. I only have one year left."

When O'Neill took over the reins two years ago from Don Blankenbush, who had little success in his two seasons, the Little Tigers won 3 of 20. Last year, the record inched up to 4-13.

This year, PHS had a number of underclassmen returning to the varsity, plus three starting pitchers. On paper, at least, a .500 season seemed a sure thing. Now this latest collapse.

"It's tough to live with," conceded O'Neill. What makes it so frustrating is that there are no easy explanations for "why?"

If there is one consensus among coaches and onlookers, it is that no one works harder at coaching or understands the sport as well as does O'Neill. He works himself and the team hard.

One possible reason for the continuing slide has to be the shrinking school enrollment. Squads are smaller; once a player makes the varsity, there is little danger of his being bumped by someone fighting for his spot.

Why is Princeton so bad? There's the reason, commented another coach, pointing to the lacrosse team practicing across the street. PHS is the only public high school in the area that fields a lacrosse team and the point being made was that some natural athletes would unquestionably be playing baseball if there were no lacrosse team.

Others mention the lack of Little League teams which supply the Ewings and the Hamiltons with a flow of boys trained in the fundamentals. "Sure it's a factor," agreed O'Neill, "but it could also be a cop-out. Things that kids should have learned after three years on jayvee teams, we find they are still doing wrong as varsity players."

Whatever the reason or combination of reasons, there is no denying that the failure to turn the team around bothers O'Neill. "Maybe it's time," he said, giving vent to the depth of his feelings, "to turn it over to someone else."

But there is a spark of optimism in O'Neill that refuses to burn out. "Of course," he added, "if I have a good year next year, I may change my mind."

of PHS lost, 6-2, 2-6, 7-5, to Melanie Thompson and Claire Cleves of PDS.

The previous day, Clark blanked Mark Marinan of St. Anthony's, 6-0, 6-0; Allen Aronovic of PHS defeated Rob Bednar of Hightstown, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3, and Louis Snijders of PHS lost to Connolloy, 6-1, 6-1. In girls competition, Clark stopped Amy Hill of Hun, 6-0, 6-1; Migliori defeated Krissa Schmidt of West Windsor, 6-0, 6-0, and Susan Usiskin of PDS topped Karrie Coppleman of Lawrence, 6-2, 2-6, 6-2.

In dual matches last week, PHS defeated Princeton Day School, 4½-½, and Hopewell Valley, 3-2. Its record is now 9-1.

Against PDS, Clark triumphed 6-0, 6-1; Aronovic defeated Mickey Donath, 6-4, 6-3, and Mike Lowe, the number three singles, had his match halted by rain after he and his opponent had each won a set. Both doubles teams of Hugo Walter and Snijders and Seth Sanders and Pete Wilson won in straight sets.

Chicken Counting. "They better put this over the PA system tomorrow," commented a member of the Hopewell Valley team Thursday, as the Bulldogs seemed to be on the verge of upsetting the Little Tigers.

Sanders and Wilson had lost, 1-6, 4-6, to Jim Goodenough and Don Machusak of HV and Snijders had lost to Randy Czyzewski, 3-6, 6-0, 3-6. And although Walter and Lowe had won the number one doubles for PHS, 6-2, 6-2, Aronovic was all even with John Koether of HV, each winning a 6-3 set and Clark was trailing in his second set with Connolloy, 5-3, after winning the first, 6-2.

However, Aronovic rallied to win the third in convincing fashion, 6-2, and Clark came on to nip Connolloy, 7-5. That PA announcement will have to wait one more year.

JUNIOR TRACK SET

At PHS Saturday. The AAU Junior Olympic Track Meet will be held Saturday at the Princeton High School track, beginning at 9 a.m. In case of rain, the meet will be held Sunday, beginning at 1.

Interested participants between 8 and 13 need only show up for the events of their choice. They will be signed up for each event before it takes place.

Because the age dates for eligibility have been moved back four months, the age of each participant should be calculated as of January 1, 1977, rather than May 1, 1977. Therefore, 14-year olds who have had their 14th birthdays in the months of January, February, March or April are still eligible to compete.

For additional information, call Sam Allen at the Princeton Recreation Department, 921-9480.

Hole-In-One Contest

The Princeton Lions Club will sponsor a Hole-in-One Contest on Sunday from 9 to 6 at the Springdale practice range off lower Springdale Road. Many prizes will be awarded including a color television set for the shot nearest the hole. Donations will be two shots for $1.

Proceeds will be used toward helping the needy, providing scholarships and building a Little League field. Rain date is the following Sunday.

SIX UNDER PAR WINS

In Springdale Tournament. The annual Curtis W. McGraw Memorial Tournament at Springdale Golf Club was won last weekend by Jim Litvack and Will Reed. The event is based on better-ball-of-partners over 36 holes of medal play, with each man credited with 80 percent of his handicap.

Litvack and Reed carded net rounds of 70 and 66 for a total of 136 against par of 142. Included among a number of net birdies was a net eagle 2 on the 442-yard seventh hole.

Two teams tied for runner-up honors at 137 – Bill Paine and Kester Pierson, the first-round leaders with a 65, and Lyle Fitch and Jack Childress. The only other pair below 140 consisted of Ken Dawes and Jack Sweeney at 139. The winners succeed Jack Mudge and Bill Turgeon as McGraw Tournament champions.

PRIZES AWARDED

To Tennis Winners. Prizes have been awarded to winners in the fifth annual indoor club championship at Nassau Racquet and Tennis Club.

Doug Wengel captured the men's singles title, while Rosemary Lewis won the women's singles and teamed with Joyce Clark in the women's doubles. Al McGimpsey and Roger Schwartz won the men's doubles; Mark Knowlton and Shirrell Buhler the mixed doubles title.

Victors in the consolation round were Alan Barbieri, men's singles; Gloria Schwartz, women's singles; Gerry Miller and Stu Schnur, men's doubles; Gloria Schwartz and Shirrell Buhler, women's doubles; Stu Schnur and Diane Belleville, mixed doubles.

Sandi Briggs, Elaine Hudson, Mary Ellen Parry, Dot Slusarchyk, Wanda Wilson, Ginger Kola, Joyce Kuhlthau and Olga Seiler received awards as high scorers in the women's doubles league.

TRYOUTS ANNOUNCED

For Little League, Babe Ruth. Little League and Babe Ruth baseball tryouts have been announced by Dean Chace, President of the Princeton Youth Baseball Association.

Little Leaguers, 9 to 12, who have not played in the league before will be given an opportunity to hit, throw and catch at registration at Grover Park Field next Saturday and Sunday, May 21 and 22, from 1 to 3.

The league will consist of eight teams sponsored by the Eagles, Elks, Princeton's Fire Companies 1 and 3, the Italian-American Sportsman's Club,
